The entire valley presents a desolate appearance.

CORN DESTROYED BY HAIL. WICHITA (Kan.;) June 7.-A terrific WICHITA (Kan.,) June 7.—A terrific hailstorm at an early hour this morning destroyed thousands of acres of fine growing corn in Southern Kansas. The hailstones cut the stalks off like a mowing machine. The storm was so severe that the roadsides are strewn with dead rabbits and birds. The storm was apparently general over Southern Kansas and extended over a part of Oklahoma.

A SERIES OF STORMS. CHICAGO, June 7.—Severe storms prevalled throughout Wisconsin, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Illi-nois and Michigan today with heavy rain, and Michigan today with heavy rain, and in several sections with cyclonic manifestations. Three heat storms passed over this city, accompanied with heavy rains and hall, Hall-stones fell in some places in this vicinity so thick that they could be taken up by the shovelful. After the rain in Hyde Park nearly a peck of shells and gravel were picked up. In one place in this suburb small fish and turtles were found in large numbers.

Of this remarkable occurrence, Observer Cox states that the transplanting of fish and shells and water gravel from their original resting place to points miles away was due to vacuums, whiriwinds and straight winds which have prevailed throughout the West for a week past.

A saliboat was capsized on the lake this afternoon by the high wind, and its four occupants barely escaped drowning. Up to a late hour tonight no fatalities had been reported. At Peorta a heavy rain did considerable damage.

acres. All told there are over one thousand acres of timber lands, and there is a broad natural lawn of 100 acres. It is grandly situated, and admirably adapted for the purpose intended. The only conditions exacted by the doner is that the land be named Swope Park, and that the city during the next ten years expend at least $5000 a year in improving the grounds.

The land is the finest in Jackson county, and is worth easily $250,000. It is a perfect park, made so by the kind hand of Nature, and it will require but a comparatively smal expenditure to make it a beauty spot unrivalled by any place. It will be the second largest park in the United States. It will give the seeker after rest from the heat and tumult of the city, a chance to wander for three miles in any direction through green groves. It will give the pleasure-seeker fishing and boating and all sorts of out-door sports. It will be laid out with handsome drives, boulevards will run to it and through it; artificial lakes wil be built, and ball grounds and tennis grounds will find a place on its beautiful stretches of level meadows. Swope's Park will be the grand center of the complete park system that is to make Kansas City radiant.

The donor is the most modest of men. For years Swope has been a familiar figure upon the streets of Kansas City radiant.

Swope is a graduate of Yale. After his graduation he read law for a year in Gainesville, Ala. From there, in 1856, he came to Kansas City, His early investments made here, and in Wyandotte were the foundation of his fortune. In 1864 he made extensive personal capiorations in the Rocky Personal capiorations and became on of the founders of its industries. His interest in education was proven five years ago, by the gift of $25,000 to Center College; Kentucky.

MINING INTERESTS. SALT LAKE (Utah,) June 7.-A spe cial to the Tribune from Helena, Mont., says that it became known to Sheriff Jurgins tonight that a scheme is on foot to prevent the hanging of Bill Gay to-morrow. He has always maintained that he would not hang, and in the face of that extra precautions will be taken to see that the ends of justice are not defeated. His death watch has been increased, and armed men are sleeping in the jall to prevent any disturbance of any character. Gay has many friends in the city, and as near as possible they will be excluded from the execution as a precaution. All deputies tomorrow will be made against any attempt to defeat the ends of justice.

Judge Thompson Says it Will be Maj. McKinley and Sound Money. What Chauncey I. Filley Says. Rev. McIntyre's Prediction.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) ST. LOUIS, June 7.-Up to date there ST. LOUIS, June 7.—Up to date there are fully five times as many out-of-thetown newspaper correspondents in St. Louis who have come to the national convention as politicians. A baker's dozen of political news disseminators arrived last week, and today's trains brought in as many more, while all told less than half a dozen politicians of national repute have put in an appearance. It is not expected there will be much real activity in a political way until the arrival of M. A. Hanna, Maj. McKinley's manager, with his forces. He is expected Tuesday, as is also the Hon. T. C. Platt, who is coming to look after the interests of Levi P. Morton. It is also said that ex-Gov. Gear of Iowa will put in an appearance before the middle of the week, with a corps of assistants, to engage in the preliminary skirmish in behalf of Senator William B. Allison. The bill-posting brigade for the Hawkeye State candidate was here today and as a result lithographs, portraits of Senators Allison, have been hung in are fully five times as many out-of-the eye State candidate was here today and as a result lithographs, portraits of Senstors Allison, have been hung in shop windows and posted upon the dead walls of the town.

Senators Allison, have been hung in shop windows and posted upon the dead walls of the town.

The national committeemen will all be here before the close of the week. With them will come scores of delegates, especially those having contests and a horde of camp followers in the way of citizens who desire to serve the State, or rather party, in the capacity of assistant doorkeepers and other useful and necessary positions about the convention hall. Then, too, the crowd in the hotels will be augmented to a considerable extent by memyers of Congress and other statesme, and patriots from the national capital.

All arrangements for handling the convention have been completed. All the hostelries and boarding, buses have laid in their supply of foell and extra rooms. The street-railway companies have, by working forces of men night and day, repaired the divide and the street of the convention have been come. The convention have any repaired the divide the convention had the finishing touches put to it and will be dedicated with pomp and ceremony this week.

In fact, St. Louis, in spite of the fact that a fortnight ago a storm swept a hole a mile and a half wide through her center from the western limits to the river is ready to comfortable accommodate and handle the scores of thousands of visitors whom it is expected will attend the convention. Maj, McKinley has a number of lieutenants here who are busily preparing the way for the Ohlo candidate's manager, Marcus A. Hanna, The latest arrival is ex-Congressman A. C. Thompson of Ohlo, who, with Gen. Grosvenor, will argue the cases of the contested McKinley degates before the national committeemen have arrived. They are G. W. Hill of Tennessee and J. C. Long of Florida. Both are avowed McKinley men.

Judge Thompson, who is locked upon as the only McKinley spokesman as yet in the field, said he was certain there will be but one bailot for the naming of a Presidential nomine. He also said Hon. Thomas B. Reed would not accept the Vice-Presidential nomine.

as the only McKinney spokesman as yet in the field, said he was certain there will be but one ballot for the naming of a Presidential nominee. He also said Hon. Thomas B. Reed would not accept the Vice-Presidential nomination. He was quite as positive of this as he was that McKinley would be nominated on the first ballot.

In regard to the platform he had this to say: "It will be a 'sound-money' platform. It will be a 'sound-money' platform. It will be a platform that will be acceptable to the Republicans East and West. However, some of the delegates may go away dissatisfied at not having been able to word it just as they desired, yet it will be a platform they can support."

In making this statement, Judge Thompson said he did not wish to be understood as attempting to dictate sentiment to the delegates or to the party as a whole. He was merely speaking from the knowledge he had of the platforms adopted at the various State conventions.

When asked as to who he thought would be named for the second place on the ticket, he said he had heard no one talked of by the McKinley men.

Regarding the contests he said he had no idea how many would be brought before the National Committee. A week ago there were 67 contests, involving the rights of 156 delegates from the States of Alabama, California, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Pennsylvania. South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Arizona. Many of these contests, he believed, would be amicably settled or abandoned before the meeting of the National Committee. Another of the McKinley force, in reference to the platform, said it would make a square issue with the 16-to-1 Democrats. It would read so as to admit of no double interpretation. It would be for a single gold standard.

C. W. Hill of the National Committee squarely for a single gold standard and for McKinley." "The Tennessee delegation will present the name of Clay Evans for the Vice-Presidency," he said, "and will do all in its power to secure a victory for him."

"CONVENTION COURTESIES."

"CONVENTION COURTESIES."

ST. LOUIS, June 7.—According to an interview with Chauncey L Filley, the Republican leader in Missouri, which appears in the Post Dispatch, William McKinley will not be nominated on the first ballot." "Can McKinley be nominated on the first ballot?" was asked Mr. Filley.

"Yes, but there is no purpose on the part of his friends and managers to attempt such condition. Those who talk or urge it are not the friends of McKinley in the real sense of true friendship. They are evidentity unfamiliar with the rules of Republican national conventions and the courtesies due to every candidate and his right to have his name presented, voted upon and to have the vote announced. It would be the height of presumption if not impudence, to attempt any other course. The friends of Reed, Allison, Morton and others, even if in the minority, have their rights, and they will be respected.

"The rules of this convention, like others in the past, will, without doubt, provide that when the roil is being called no change of vote will be in order and that it will be announced. Then if a majority has not been had, another ballot will be proceeded with and continued until there is a majority of all the delegates elected announced. "Hence no stampede or acclamation vote will be in order. Without the contested Southern votes, some 115 of Mc-Kinley's, it is possible to nominate him on the first formal ballot. Sometimes an informal ballot is taken."

SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT IN SOUTH AFRICAN STOCKS.

se in Speculative Activity Du

LONDON, June 7, (Special Dispatch.) There are signs of improvement in the South African market where dealers are straggling back to get under the tent of the "Kaffir circus." The recovery in prices is not yet decided, but there is great increase in speculative activity. This is due to the elemency shown to Rand prisoners and (BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES.) clemency shown to Rand prisoners and the expectation that President Krueger was induced to come to England to re-cruit his health. "Barney" Barnato, whether he deserves it or not, gets more credit than Chamberlain for im-provement in South African affairs. He warned Krueger that the lucrative ndustries of the Rand were paralyzed by political uncertainty, and clemency and amnesty were necessary for busi-

Affairs will be settled up by Barnato and other millionaires, and another Kaffir boom will be in order. Cecil Rhodes is in Buluwayo planning railways and exciting the enthusiasm of his supporters. He is "the big dog that bites," but President Krueger has not caught him yet. With prisoners re-leased, it is now probable that Jameson trial will speedily be wound up, and the accused will escape on technical pleadings.

OTHER MARKET NEWS.

LONDON, June 7 .- The falling away in discount rates the past week was due to the release of funds from the treas-ury, but there is unlikely to be any further decline in view of the impend ing half-yearly demands and the Stock Exchange settlement next week, in which there is a heavy mining and home railway account. The stock mar-ket was fairly busy, the funds and colonial stocks being still strong, espe cially for Cape Colony and Natal, owing to the satisfactory Cape budget, showing a surplus of £1,250,000. Railshowing a surplus of £1,250,000. Railways were weak on realizations and heavy stocks being all lower. American securities were quiet with small movements, pending a definite announcement regarding the gold standard, though they were slightly firmer at the end of the week on firmer Wall street prices, but the amount of business was small.

Foreign securities were generally improved. Transvaals were higher on the better outlook. Coal shares have risen to 50 on the belief that the amalgamation of the manufacturers of the United Kingdom had been completed. The price of thread was raised 12½ per cent. There was an enormous business in the mining market and a general advance. The Rand mines have risen 3¾, Simmer and Jack 2½, Golden End's, Deep and Robinson's 1¾.

Status of the Business Before the Two Houses.

our Appropriation Bills Have not Been Disposed Of-Concessions in Conference May be Neces-sary-Work Reviewed.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Whether the Senate shall be able to conclude the work of the session this week will probably depend upon whether a quorum can be maintained. Some Senators are opposed to the passage of the new General Deficiency Bill with the French spollation clause, and the store and supply claims allowed under the Bowman act admitted. Senator Harris makes no secret of his intention to de-mand the restoration of these items to the bill, and says he will not consent to its passage without them, except upon a yea and nay vote. If he insists upon this a voting quorum will be necessary. Several Senators have announced their purpose of leaving the city early in the week, and many others will depart about the middle of the week for St. Louis. Under these circumstances it is possible that adjournment may be postponed until the Republican convention, although there will be a very general effort to prevent this. The other appropriation bills which have not been finally disposed of are the Indian, District of Columbia, the Sundry Civil and the Postoffice. its passage without them, except upon trict of Columbia, the Sundry Civil and the Postoffice.

The House managers have parliamentary machinery in operation which will enable them to secure prompt action on every proposition submitted by the conferees on the five remaining appropriation bills looking to an adjustment of the differences between the two houses. Instead of adjourning last night, the House took a recess until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. That action continues the legislative day of Saturday. which, by a special order adopted on Friday, was made a suspension and will enable the House to vote on any proposition after twenty minutes' debate. The differences between the two houses, the four supply bills (the Sundry Civil, Naval, Indian and District of Columbia,) are radical, but by mutual concessions the House leaders believe the differences can be adjusted so as to permit an adjournment Tuesday or Wednesday.

In the Sundry Civil Bill, the House has thus far persistently refused to accept the amendments for public buildings at the capitals of Utah, Wyoming, Idaho and Montana. and the additions for the public buildings at Kansas City, Savannah, Ga., and Camden, N. J.

In the Naval Bill the House has remained equally firm in its insistence on four battleships and $425 per ton as the maximum cost of armor plate. To both of these items the Senate has declined to agree, and yesterday refused a compromise. The Senate insists on two battliships and a reduction of aimor plate to $220 per ton.

In the Indian Bill, which has no less than four times voted for the immediate termination in 1897. This same question figures in the differences between the two houses on the items in the District of Columbia Bill relating to sectarian Indian schools as against the Senate's proposition to allow them to run until 1898. the House yesterday declined to accept as a compromise their termination in 1897. This same question figures in the differences between the two houses on the items in the District of Columbia Bill relating to sectarian Indian schools as against the Postoffice.

The House managers have parliasession.

On the question of sectarian schools it does not seem possible that the House can be induced to yield. The probabilities are that the other items will be compromised, saving and excepting the public building items in the Sundry Civil Bill, which it seems likely the Senate will eventually abandon.

cepting the public building items in the Sundry Civil Bill, which it seems likely the Senate will eventually abandon.

The main difficulty in the way of an adjournment by the middle of the week seems to lie at the Senate end of the Capitol, where a single Senator can obstruct matters if he chooses, until the quorum fails, or until all chances of a sine die adjournment before the St. Louis convention will disappear. An intense desire of members at both ends of the Capitol to get away. however, will do much toward inducing those who are disposed to raise factious opposition to yield their individual desires to accomplish this result. It is possible that Senator Harris and others who are represented as insisting on the restoration of the Southern war claims on the new general deficiency should carry their obstruction tactics too far. the leaders at both ends of the Capitol might decide to allow the deficiency to fail altogether in order to bring about the coveted adjournment. While the fallure of this bill might embarrass the government, it would not stop all of the government machinery.

If, as now seems probable, the first session of the Fifty-fourth Congress adjoints this week, it will be the shortest so-called "long session" since that of the Thirty-fifth Congress, and one of the shortest in the history of the government. This record is probably partly due to the political difference between the Senate, House and President, which has forestalled agreements on lines of legislation, and partly due to the determination with which the Republican leaders in the House have carried into effect Speaker Reed's caucus prediction that the Congress would be a do-nothing assemblage. Legislation means appropriations, the House have leaders have said, and as their opinion was that the treasury's condition warranted no appro tals of the bills or the grand total of appropriations made by this Congress, which aggregate about half a billion dollars, but the disbursements authorized during the session will be discussed hereafter by Chairman Cannon of the Appropriations Committee and ex-Chairman Sayres, from the points of view of their respective parties.

Tariff or financial legislation of any general character was abandoned for all practical purposes, when the disagreements between the House and Senate were demonstrated by the fate of the two bills prepared by the House Ways and Means Committee. Other lines of business were also tabooed by the House because of the alleged lack of revenues, notably public buildings, public and provincial claims, and all sorts of private bills, entailing expenditures except pension bills, to which last the usual amount of time has been given.

One of the most bitterly-contested fights which has occurred has cropped out from the provisions of the Indian and District of Columbia bills for government aid to church schools, a feature which still holds both bills in conference. The Indian Bill contains provisions giving the homestead settlers on all ceded Indian reservations an extension of one year in which to make payments and for the completion of the surveys of land in Indian Territory,

Incidental to the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Bill was an advance of the salaries of Unkted States district attorneys, marshals and commissioners with the stipulation that the terms of office of all commissioners expire on June 30, 1897. The Agricultural Bill conferred upon the President authority to suspend the prohibition against importations of meat cattle, domestic animals and hides on the certificaction of the Secretary of Agriculture, that countries or parts of countries are free from contagious or infectious diseases of animals, and authority to suspend the prohibition against importations of meat cattle, domestic animals and hides on the certification of the Secretary of Agriculture, that countries or par

In the Sundry Civil Bill, the most important legislation is to make effective the Carey arid land act, which ceded arid lands to the public land States for reclamation, by authorizing the States to give liens on the land to cover the expenses of reclamation. The most noteworthy legislation pertaining to the navy is contained in the appropriation bill. The House provided for fifteen torpedo boats and four battleships, but the Senate reduced the number of battleships to two, and a conference is pending over that difference.

The bill made provision for the enlistment of one thousand additional seamen. It also made unlawful the employment of naval or marine officers on the active and retired lists by parties furnishing supplies or materials of war to the government.

A special report authorized the acceptance by the government of the ram Katahdin, which failed to make the speed required by the contracts, but which satisfied the department, it being largely an experimental craft. The naval reserve system was strengthened by a plan designed to draft vessels engaged in the coastwise trade into the service in time of war. An act was passed to establish a naval trailing station at Yerba Buena (or Goat Ialand.) in San Francisco Harbor. The Secretary was empowered to accept certified checks in lieu of bonds from contractors for naval supplies. No speand.) in San Francisco Harbor. The Secretary was empowered to accept certified checks in lieu of bonds from contractors for naval supplies. No special legislation was contained in the Army Appropriation Bill. Special bilis were passed, however, creating the positions of chaplain (who will also be professor of history, geography and ethics) and an assistant professor of the same branches at West Point Academy, making the National Guard, or militia, and a resolution appointed Gen. W. S. Franklin of Connecticut, Gen. Thomas J. Henderson of Illinois, Representative Steele of Indiana and George Inomas J. Henderson of Illinois, Representative Steele of Indiana and George L. Beale of Maine, members of the board of managers for the National board of managers for the National Soldiers' Home.

Of tariff and financial legislation this Congress, as was said, has accomplished none. With a safe margin of free silver votes in the Senate and a majority of nearly two to one against silver in the House, it was evident from the beginning that no general policy could be agreed upon. The two bills framed by the House Ways and Means Committee, and bearing the name of their author. Mr. Dingley of Maine, one a bill for the issue of a short-term popular loan and of certificates of indebtedness, the other to increase the rates of tariff schedules in wool, manufactures tariff schedules in wool, manufactures of wool and other articles, were killed in the Senate by the determination to substitute therefor silver coinage measures. On the other hand, the Senate resolution to prohibit 'he issue of bonds without authority of Congress, one of the last important acts of the Senate, was reported adversely by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The only one of the many proposed changes in the tariff laws which became an actuality was the repeal of changes in the tariff laws which became an actuality was the repeal of that clause of the Wilson bill giving free alcohol in the arts and manufactures, this being done on the recommendation of Secretary Carlisle and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Miller. This repeal met so much antagonism from members representing manufacturing interests that it could only be effected by coupling with it a compromise scheme devised by Senator Platt and Representative Russell of Connecticut for a Congressional committee to recommend legislation at the beginning of the next session by which free alcohol can be secured under sufficient safeguards for the government's interests.

The policy of reciprocity was thorcient safeguards for the government's interests.

The policy of reciprocity was thoroughly investigated by a sub-committee of the Ways and Means Committee, but it was thought not advisable by the Republican leaders to attempt legislation on that single feature of the tariff system.

Although the House Committee on Banking and Currency devoted much time to the discussion of financial questions it was able to agree on but two boilds, one to permit banks to issue circulation to the amount of the par value of bonds deposited by them as security; the other for the organization of national banks in the smaller towns, neither of which was passed this session. The only important bill reached by the House Committee on Colnage, was that for the adoption of the metric system of weights and measures.

The debate over Cuban affairs resulted in the adoption of a concurrent resolution expressing the sympathy of this government with the insurgents; calling upon the President to accord them belligerent rights and to offer the friendly offices of the United States to Spain to bring the war to an end. Resolutions were adopted by both branches of Congress denouncing the massacres of Armenians in Turkey and calling upon the signatory powers to the Berlin treaty to protect the Armenian Christians. Seventy-five thousand dollars was appropriated for carrying out the stipulations of the Berlin Serventy-five thousand to locate the boundary lipe between Alaska and British America. One incident of the excitement which attended the crisis of the Venesuelan boundary dispute was the quick adoption of Senator Hill's proposition to repeal the law forbidding ex-Confederates who relinquished commissions in the United States army or navy to be again appointed to the service.

The plans to bring about the Maher-Fitzzimmons fight in the Indian Territory inspired the rapid enactment of a law imposing extremely severe penalities for prizefighting in the Territories, and the epidemic of train-robberies in the Indian Territory brought about an ironclad law against crimes in that class or attempts at them, with the death penalty for any incidental loss of life. Another emergency act was that authorizing the Secretary of War to lend tents to the cyclone sufferers at St. Louis. The dairy interests of the country prevailed upon Congress to enact the most important measure for their protection since the eleomargarine law, the Filled Cheese Bill which regulates the manufacture and sale of adulterated cheese and imposes heavy penalties for deceptions.

Some of the bills prepared by the committee were not given a hearing in either house, or passed by the one house, and will be one the calendar for consideration during the short session, if the supporters are able to secure time for them.

Among the most important of these are the Lodge-McCall Bill, for an educational test for immigrants, with the Corliss amendment to prevent the invasion of day laborers; the Phillips Industrial Commission Bill, the Curtis bill to lessen the number of crimes for which the death penalty can be imposed by the United States courts; the Bankruptcy Bill and the Pickler Pension Bill, all of which were passed by the House. The old Anti-Option Bill was killed by the House Committee on Agriculture, and will not appear in this Congress. A large fraction of the session's business related to public lands and important amendments were made to the public lands are mong these was Delegate Flynn's Free sion's business related to public lands and important amendments were made to the public lands law. Foremost emong these was Delegate Flynn's Free Home Bill. A second important measure was that which extended for five years from the 2d of March. last, the limit within which the United States may bring suits to annul public lands, heretofore granted under railroad grants, but confirmed the titles to all such lands held by bona fide purchasers.

Acts were also passed permitting timber culture claimants to give evidence before United States commissioners or clerks of courts, instead of land officers, in making final proof, confirming private cash entries to public lands sold in Alabama, Mississippi and in Arkansas between the date of the approval of the joint resolution of May 14, 1883, and its promulgation May 29; granting leave of absence of one year to homestead settlers on the Yankton Indian Reservation of South Dakota; authorizing the New Orleans Pacific Italiroad to relinquish lands with the indemnity limits of its grant in favor of settlers who have made entries, and select other public lands in lieu thereof; to restore the Fort Lewis military reservation in Colorado to the public domain; to authorize the State of South Dakota to select the Fort Sully military reservation of the Fort Assinaboine Indian reservation; opening to settlement the lands on the Klamath Bay Reservation, Oregon, not included in the Klamath Indian Reservation; opening to settlement the lands on the klamath Bay Reservation, Oregon, not included in the Klamath Indian Reservation; opening the Pike's Peak, Plum Creek and South Piatte forest reservations in Colorado to the location of mining claims; authorizing the leasing of lands reserved for school purposes in Arizona, extending the mineral land laws to north half of the Colville Indian Reservation; opening that purchasers of arid grant lands forfeited under the act of December 12, 1893, may make their purchases, providing that purchasers of arid grant lands forfeited under the act of D

The National Saengerfest.

PITTSBURGH, June 7.—Everything is in readiness for the opening of the twenty-eighth National Saengerfest tomorrow night, and a number of delegations of singers who will participate have arrived. DANIEL NOT A MURDERER.

The Armenian Tragedy Deepening.

Russians Suspected of Having Done the Crime.

The Elder Shahamarian Probably Decoyed to Death.

Death of a Young Woman Who Was Traveling Around the World—A Farmer Kicked by a Young Horse—Dunham Pursuit.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) FRESNO, June 7.—The murder of the three Armenians is as much a mystery as ever. The Coroner, Sheriff and District Attorney have been working on the case, but so far as can be learned, they have obtained no evidence leading to the identity of the assassin. Danlel Shahamarian a nephew of the mur-dered father, is now generally believed to be innocent of the crime, as no mo-tive can be ascribed. Besides Daniel is a quiet, inoffensive fellow and does not have the appearance of being cap-able of such a heinous crime. Suspicion centers upon a Russian whose daughter was once assaulted by the younger Shahamarian, and who has since been bitter against the murdered family. The Coroner's jury adjourned last night for several days to permit the ac-cumulation of evidence information

The Coroner's jury adjourned last night for several days to permit the accumulation of evidence, information now at hand being insufficient to justify the arrest of any particular person. Many influential Armenians are now working on the case. They are proceeding on an altogether different hypothesis than the officers, as they believe more than one person is involved in the guilt. Much animosity appears to have existed between the Armenians and settlers at Russiantown, and the former believe the murder was the result of strained relations, the elder Shahamarian being a leading aggressor in the hostilities.

Much mystery enshrouds the affair, as no reason can be given for all three victims being a mile from home at so late an hour at night. The conclusion most generally entertained is that the elder Shahamarian was induced to meet some one at the fatal spot upon business representations and was killed; that his prolonged absence caused his son to go on a tour of investigation, he meeting the same fate. The testimony of a Chinaman living near that pistol shots were heard at a late hour at night would indicate that the daughter finally went in search, of her father and brother, and, coming upon their dead bodies, turned to run away, and was shot in the back of the head.

ALASKAN GOLD FIELDS.

Flattering Reports.
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) OAKLAND, June 7 .- Dr. R. K. Dunr OAKLAND, June 7.—Dr. R. K. Dunn of this city has returned from the Alaskan gold fields with anything but a flattering report of the outlook for the hundreds of prospectors scattered through the snowy wastes of that Territory. Dr. Dunn declares the truth has not been told concerning the gold fields. He left Oakland in February left with the Weller-Penney Syrvey. last with the Walker-Pennock expe dition. He has returned very much dis-gusted and satisfied that gold mining gusted and satisfied that gold mining in Alaska is an elusive dream.

"There are probably not less than 1200 men scattered about Resurrection and Six Mile creeks," said the doctor, "and claims have been taken up everywhere. Why, some of them are staked out on fifty-foot snow-banks and no one knows what is beneath them. Mining and prospecting is impossible, and it will be at least six weeks yet before the snow will have left the ground. So far as the outlook for gold is concerned, it is very difficult to tell. A prospector can find color anywhere along the creeks, but it is very hard and in most possible to save the gold. The ents with gold machines have allures.

experiments with gold machines have proved failures.

"The mining country is located along the creeks. Both Resurrection and Six Mile creeks have many tributaries, and upon these the prospectors have located. The outlook is decidedly bad. At Coal Bay there are about twenty-five men and they are waiting the melting of the snow to go to work. Some 'color' has already been found there, but the next point is to save the gold."

Dr. Dunn stated that the health of those at the locations he visited was good. The general situation was very discouraging, he believed, because of the hundreds at the gold fields who were idle and unable to accomplish anything because of the snow. Urder his calculations the season for actual work on claims will not be longer than four months.

Commercial Value of Reciprocity Commercial Value of Reciprocity.

(Chicago Times-Herald:) Whatever may be the views entertained by the economists of the schools with reference to the principle of commercial reciprocity as an adjunct to a protective tariff schedule the industrial interests of the country appear to be practically unanimous in the demand for the restoration of the reciprocity treaties that were in force under the tariff act of 1890. This much is evidenced by the report of the sub-committee on reciprocity just submitted to the Committee on Ways and Means of the Fifty-fourth Congress.

It is unreasonable to assume that men representing the solid commercial and industrial interests of the country would subscribe with such marked unanimity of sentiment to an economic policy that had not yet emerged from the field of speculative experimentation. Figures and markets appeal with more persuasive eloquence to unsentimental traders than do the neatily the field of speculative experimentation. Figures and markets appeal with more persuasive eloquence to unsentimental traders than do the neatly phrased maxims of the books.

The two features of the report that afford the most convincing arguments in favor of the establishment and maintenance of reciprocal relations are the figures showing the substantial increase in the exports of breadstuffiunder the act of 1890 and measures of retailation adopted by Germany, Spain, Brazil and other countries after the abrogation of these treaties by the Wilson-Gorman act. As the milling and live stock industries were the heaviest sufferers from the repeal of of the reciprocity treaties it is natural that they should be most clamorous for their reënactment. Indeed, it was averred at a recent meeting of the National Manufacturers' Association in Chicago that a reciprocity law is now absolutely essential to the prosperity of the flour milling interests of this country, in which millions of dollars are invested.

In this testimony before the subcommittee in Congress Mr. Samuel Allerton of Chicago testified that the repeal of reciprocity treaties had cost the American people about 800,000 head of cattle per year.

The export trade of the United States the American people about 800,000 head of cattle per year.

The export trade of the United States reached the high-water mark in 1892, the total for that year being $1,030,278,-148, an increase of $100,000,000 over the previous year. It is estimated that the loss to the merchant millers of this country by the repeal of reciprocity was at least $16,000,000 a year. Our exports to Cuba showed tremendous gains under reciprocity, rising from $12,224,888 in 1891 to $20,125,321 in 1895, and falling back again to $12,887,661 directly after the repeal of the reciprocity treatles. A very large portion of this increased export trade consisted of American flour. very large portion of this increased export trade consisted of American flour.

As soon as the reciprocity treaties were abrogated Spain quickly retaliated by increasing the duty on flour from $1 per 220 pounds to $4.75 per 220 pounds, practically closing the Cuban market to American millers. Under reciprocity our flour was admitted to Brazil free of duty. Now there is a duty of $2 cents a barrel, which it is believed has permanently injured our trade with that country.

The testimony in support of the contention that the abandonment of the reciprocity arrangements negotiated under the McKinley act of 1890 resulted in irreparable loss to our commercial interests is so overwhelming that no tariff act of the future will be complete or satisfactory to the country that does not embody the reciprocity principle. There is no politics in trade.

Strengthening the Memory.

(Harper's Round Table:) How to strengthen the memory is an interesting question. I think the best way is to use it constantly, making it serve you by giving it definite facts and events to carry, as a pack-horse might on a journey. There are many phases of the problem, some people finding that they cannot fix dates in their minds, others forgetting the faces and names of friends, and others still having great trouble in committing anything by rote. Devices of rhymes and associations help some persons, and others simply depend on memoranda, and do not tax their memories at all. As a rule, the more we give the mem-Strengthening the Memory. very retentive, because their minds are at the stage when impressions are easily made; you know the line which says that in childhood our minds are "Wax to receive and marble to retain." So that we should be very careful indeed about what we say, what we do, and what we teach, where the dear little ones are concerned.

Some girls have a great deal of trouble in remembering the rules of syntax, the Latin conjugations, and the pages of history which her teacher requires to be recited exactly as they are in the book. Try the method of studying aloud. Go away by yourself to commit your lessons to memory, and then, over and over, slowly, carefully, with your mind and attention fixed on what you are doing, read phrases, sentences and formulas, over and over, and the over, and the over, and the over the done this when I have wished to learn a hymn or a poem, and I know that hearing what one is studying assists the mere seeing. Then having other people in the room, talking and laughing, is very distracting to the attention. Try my method, and report results.

Greek System of Voting.

(London News:) I remember M. Tricoupis describing to me with much spirit and lucidity the precise method of Greek voting. There is an urn for each candidate, and every voter must vote "Yes" or "No" for each candidate, and every voter must vote "Yes" or "No" for each candidate. This breeds endless confusion, as Mr. Tricoupis pointed out to me, for though voters set out with explicit party tickets and the best intentions, they can rarely be induced to vote "Yes" for their own partisans only. When they come to the urn of a man for whom they have a sneaking liking they forget that a vote for him will neutralize the votes given for their own partisans, and they cannot always bring themselves to blackball. "The beauty of the system," M. Tricoupis remarked with a smile, "is that it is founded on no principle whatever. It was part of the constitution of the Ionian Isles—the only part we retained at the time of their union with Greece." "Ang-how did it come to exist in the Ionian Isles?" I asked. "They got it from the English, who probably derived it from their clubs."

SHARKEY MAY TAKE CORBETT.

Four-round Match is Talked Of.

Jeems Wouldn't Agree to Knock Out the Sailor.

Some Kind of a Deal May be Ultimately Made.

Wheelman Johnson Will Bring Michael Back with Him—"Shorty" Fuller is Let Out—A. W. Luce's Long-distance Ride.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Vigorous efforts are being made here to get on a four-round match between Corbett and efforts are being made here to get on a four-round match between Corbett and Tom Sharkey, the muscular sullor, who so far has whipped every man he has gone against. Last night it was reported that an agreement had been reached whereby Corbett would meet Sharkey in a four-round contest. He would not agree to knock the sailor out, however, but stipulated that if Sharkey was knocked out in four rounds he (Corbett) was to get 50 per cent. of the gate receipts and Sharkey nothing. If Sharkey should be on his feet at the end of the fourth round the receipts to be divided between the two, Corbett to receive the larger share. Corbett today denied that he had made any such agreement, but the managers of the National Athletic Club say that a new deal is now being negotiated which will result in a fight of some sort on June 23.

Corbett stated to the Associated Press tonight that he was willing to meet Sharkey in a four-round go, but would not guarantee to knock him out. The champion's proposition is that if he should put Sharkey out he is to get 50 per cent, of the gross receipts, and Sharkey nothing. If Sharkey should manage to stay four rounds, the sailor should receive a small proportion of the receipts.

manage to stay four rounds, the sailor should receive a small proportion of the receipts.

Sharkey at first agreed to this proposition and the fight was set for June 23. Later, however, the big sailor concluded that he was getting the shortend, and insisted that if he should be on his feet at the end of the fourth round the contest should be declared a draw. Corbett laughed at what he calls such a nervy proposition and declines Sharkey an opportunity to make a draw with him. Corbett could not be induced to change his opinion and Sharkey could not be persuaded to meet the champion on any other terms than those he proposed, so the fight is off temporarily. It is very probable, however, that Sharkey may be tempted to stand up before Corbett and do his best to stay four rounds for the short end of the give receipts.

The arrangements for the four-round go between James J. Corbett and Tom Sharkey will be concluded at noon tomorrow. A few changes will be made in the original scheme suggested by the National A sletic Club. under whose auspices the mill will be held.

So far as Sharkey is concerned the club will look out for his financial interests. A FLAGSTONE FOR M'KINLEY. The Men Who Quarried It Will Vote for Him.

The Men Who Quarried It Will Vete for Him.

(New York Tribune.) Charles W. Underwood, New York manager for the Erie Blue Stone Association, whose offices are at No. 280 Broadway, told his Republican friends yesterday of a mammoth flagging stone which his company shipped yesterday from Hancock, N. Y., on the Ontario and Western Raliroad, to S. S. Kurts of Canton, O., for use before the polls close in November, in front of Maj. McKinley's front stoop or in front of his house as a part of the sidewalk. The stone is an unusually handsome one, even for the Upper Delaware Valley, where the quality is first-class. It measures 17x9 feet and is about eight inches thick. It will be shipped to Canton in its quarry-dressed condition, and as soon as it reaches the home of Maj. McKinley it will be run through the stone mill and receive a polish. It is said that all the quarrymen, about fifteen in number, who had a part in getting the stone from its bed, at a point near Waldton, Delaware county, have cut their names on it with a promise to vote for the Buckeye candidate when the time comes. Few branches of trade have suffered in the last three or four years as the bluestone quarrying business of the Upper Delaware Valley. In 1892 the quarries were running with all the men that could be hired. The stone was used in building operations and for flagging all through. Northern New Jersey, and in and about New York The quarrymen earned the largest wages in the history of the trade, and boasted that as their business was not a protected industry it made no difference how they voted on the national issues. Free trade speakers told them they were being robbed by the tariff barons, and that the tariff was a tax. They voted almost solidly for Cleveland, and the doing away of the protective tariff.

The bluestone output of 1893 was only half that of the year before, and hundreds of quarrymen who voted for Cleveland had an idle summer in which to figure out how much they had gained by voting the Republicans out of power. The quarrymen who the whole night to accomplish the march.

The greatest secrecy has been maintained as to all the arrangements, and precautions were taken to prevent the news of the advance from leaking out. The long night march was pursued in absolute silence in consequence of which the arrival of the Egyptians at the dervishes' camp' took the enemy completely by surprise. They quickly rallied, however, and rushed to their arms. Far from being routed in the first skirmish of the attack, they stood to their positions and made a stubborn defense of the camp for an hour and a half, during which there was hard fighting.

by a flank movement executed by the The dervishes were finally put to rout by a flank movement executed by the cavalry. Seeing themselves in danger of being surrounded, the forces of Khalifa took flight to the southward toward Suarda pursued by the cavalry. Suarda is nearly one hundred miles south of here, but is strongly held by a force of several thousand dervishes.

Reports received indicate that the loss to the dervishes will amount to a thousand men. Among those killed is the Amir Hammuda, who was their commander, besides many important chiefs. Hummuda was in command of the largest force at Suarda. He was of the tribe of Habbania, and was well known to Slatin Pasha while the latter was a captive of the Khalifa in the Soudan. Slatin Pasha was a great favorite with the Khalifa, who promoted him to the rank of Emir because he left his own tribe when the insurrection first broke out to serve the Khalifa personally.

It is believed the taking of Flerkat broke out to serve the Khalifa personally.

It is believed the taking of Fierket was decided upon owing to the double strength of Akasheh as an outpost, surrounded, as it is, by low hills, the taking of which would make Akasheh a death-trap. The finishing of the railroad line from Arras has been rapidly pushed since the expedition was decided upon. By extending it to Fierket, the worst cataract will be turned and early advantage can thus be taken of the rise in the Nile at the end of July, for water transport to Dongola.

The officers in command of the Egyptian force express great gratification at the conduct in this morning's fight of the Egyptians, about whom some doubts have been felt and the Soudanse, who have been depended on for good fighting. They displayed great steadiness and dash. The Egyptian loss in the fight was twenty killed and eighty wounded. Hundreds of dervishes were taken prisoners.

HAVANA, June 7.—(By Central American Cable.) The band of Acea demanded the surrender of the fort at the village of Gabriel, in Havana province, and sent a threat to blow it up with dynamite. The chief of the garrison detained the messengers who had been sent to parley with him, and, after keeping up a fire two hours, the insurgents retreated, burning fourteenhouses. They buried five killed and carried off their wounded.

In the course of several skirmishes in Havana, Matansas and Pinar del Rio, the insurgents have lost twenty killed. Col. Figuero attacked the insurgents in extensive positions held by them on the heights of Santa Barbara in Havana province. Both sides opened fire simultaneously, but the insurgents soon retreated, abandoning fourteen of their killed, but carrying off their wounded. Capt. Lopes, with 150 infantry, met a squadron of cavalry at Bayamess, found 600 well-armed insurgents occupying good positions and forced them to retire with a loss of eighteen killed. The official report states that the troops had three killed, while Capt. Lopes himself was seriously wounded, and eleven privates were also wounded.

horses mistook them for insurgents and fired on them. The firing alarmed the remainder of the detachment at the Olympic estate and they went to the relief of their comrades, but seeing the supposed enemy in large numbers in the woods, they fired a volley and fell back to the sugar mills, on the Olympic estate. Their retreat deceived the Parvia column, who also had taken them for rebels and conclouded that they were retreating.

The Parvia column actively pushed them, when the proprietor of the Olympic estate recognized the mutual mistake and rode in between the fire. He in turn was taken for an insurgent and was fired at by both sides. His horse was killed under him. However, his courage and daring put a stop to the firing. As a result of this bungle, a soldier of the Havana battalion was killed, while one of the royal engineers was dangerously wounded.

El Heraldo, Madrid, referring to the statement published by the Minister of War giving the casualities among the insurgents, makes the following summary for the eleven months of 1895:

Twenty-six chiefs or leaders and 1190 rebels were killed; four chiefs and 358 men were wounded and 218 men were made prisoners.

El Heraldo draws a contrast between the early months of 1896. During January, February, March and April, 1896, thirty-seven chiefs and 3985 men were willed, while twelve chiefs and 330 men were made prisoners. One of the latest things in bicycles

One of the latest things in bicycles is the ambulance cycle, invented by Dr. Honig of the Berlin Mechanico-Therapeutic Institute. It consists of a five-wheel truck, fitted with a set of light steel springs, upon which rests a portable stretcher with a removable canvas roof. The machine is propelled by two men, one in front. who does the steering, and one in the rear, who attends to the needs of the patient.

It is noted by a cycling writer in San Francisco that "affairs in cycling have taken on a sluggish condition in the metropolitan district since the relay race, and at the meeting of the board of governors in the rooms of the Alameda Cyclers tonight, ways and means will be discussed to put new life into the pastime and again bring into play the energy and enthusiasm which was so marked last season."

NEW BICYCLE PUMP. NEW BICYCLE PUMP.

NEW BICYCLE PUMP.

The latest invention which will interest wheelmen is a new bicicle pump for inflating deflated tires, the terror of the cycling tourist. Closed, the new pump looks exactly like a small drinking cup without a handle. It is made of nickel-plated brass, and consists of two small cylinders, one within the other, the inner one working freely up and down by the action of a spring of fine steel fastened to the inner bottom of the outside cover. A tiny valve fine steel fastened to the inner bottom of the outside cover. A tiny valve makes the necessary suction in the center of the cylinders. The rubber tubing about ten inches long, is attached to the bottom of the outer cylinder at one end, at the other to the deflated tire. The foot is then placed on the pump, which is worked vigorously up and down. The two cylinders work freely on each other and force the air from the lower cylinder into the rubber tubing and thence into the tits with a force far exceeding that of the ordinary pump formerly operated by hand power.

HOW TO CLEAN YOUR WHEEL.

A wheel should be cleaned early and often to give good service. To clean the wheel remove the lamp, place the wheel upside down, resting on the saddle and handle-bar, which rest on a cloth or piece of old carpet to prevent it being marred. Remove the dust from the wheel with a dry brush. If the rims and frames are muddy use a wet cloth; a small brush will be found useful in cleaning the sand or mud from the hub and sprocket wheel. If the enamel of the frame appears streaked after washing off the mud, it should be rubbed with a dry cloth or a piece of chamois skin. Do not use oily rags on the enameled parts. The spokes should be cleaned with cloth. Every month the chain should be removed and soaked in turpentine, followed by kerosene oil alone. The sprocket wheels should be thoroughly cleaned before replacing the chain. There are a number of chain lubricators on the market, including a mice should preparation of plumbago and the hands or clothes. Many wheelmen lubricate their chains with a semi-fuld preparation of plumbago and the solid graphite as well; only a small quantity of lubricant is required. After the bleycle is cleaned it should be thoroughly cled and the bearings should be examined and tightened, if necessary.

SOME QUEER ADVICE. HOW TO CLEAN YOUR WHEEL.

SOME QUEER ADVICE.

The editor of the League of American Wheelmen's official bulletin, who, as every one knows, is also the president of the league, is nothing if not facetious. His latest burst of humor is contained among the list of "Don'ts for Bioyclists," published in the last issue. It says: "Don't abuse the baggageman for neglecting your wheel. Try a quarter instead." What does the editor-president mean? That bi-cyclists should bribe the employes of railroad companies to neglect their duties, to the detriment of the general public and the other wheelmen who do not happen to have a quarter. Surely, there is something wrong about this in these days of Bicycle Baggage bills, free hotels and free board and SOME QUEER ADVICE. this in these days of Bicycle Baggage bills, free hotels and free board and lodging. If the bicyclists have to give up anything, which, kind Providence forfend, would it not be wiser for them to pay the companies direct to take all reasonable care of their wheels rather than to bribe an irresponsible employe?

IT WILL NOT DOWN. The L.A.W. is evidently determined to make the good roads question a national one. It is said the matter will be broached to every delegate to the National Republican and Democratic conventions in a letter to be sent out National Republican and Democratic conventions in a letter to be sent out from the L.A.W. headquarters in Boston. The letter has already been signed by twenty-nine chief consuls of the league, and will be signed by every chief consul in the United States. The epistle states that the position of the person addressed as a delegate prompts the senders to call his attention to the importance of a plank which will be offered for insertion in the national platform, and having for its object a general indorsement of the good roads movement by his party, Attention is called to the fact that the improvement is suggested by the wheelmen's organization, with its large membership and associates, and to the additional fact that good roads incalculably foster and promote the country's general prosperity, as evidenced in those States which have adopted a systematic plan of road building. The delegate's support of the plank is asked. Two prominent politicians, one a Republican and one a Democrat, have agreed to present resolutions at their national party conventions requesting that such a plank be put in the platform.

Spaiding's Comments.

In an interesting bit of reminiscential gossip, A. G. Spaiding, the magnate of the Chicago Baseball Club and an oldtime player, has the following to say with reference to the difference between the playing rules of the past and of the

The code of playing rules of 1876 there were just seven rules, each rule having so many separate sections, fourteen small pages of large type sufficing for the whole code that year. This year's code includes seventy-two rules with separate sections and over twenty pages of fine type are required for the chapter. About six years ago Mr. Chadwick codified the league rules, and the code is now being perfected each year, the changes needed being less and less at each annual meeting. In that year the championship season extended from March 15 to November 15, and the rule then in vogue was: No game played on Sunday shall count in the championship series. Moreover, each club failing, through its own fault, to play out its series of ten games forfeited all its games and could not enter the pennant race of the ensuing season. This was done to obviate the difficulty caused by the Atheltic ad Mutual clubs in 1876, who wilfully refused to finish their soheduled games and were consequently expelled from the league. Between you and I, however, there was more than that behind their expulsion, their ways not having been those of righteousness that season, to say the least. Percentage of victories did not decide the pennant race in 1876, the mere record of won games giving the final victory. Under the head of "Field Rules" in the league constitution of that year it was provided that 'any person hissing or hooting at the umpire or offering any insuit or indignity must be promptly ejected from the grounds. This was in accordance with the first article of the league was 'to make baseball playing respectable and honorable.

"The players' rules of '76 prohibited any player from entering the team on the field until the regular first nine man put in an appearance.

"There was a good rule in the code of that year which ought to be in that of the players' rules of '76 prohibited any player prompts of games in which he takes part.' The penalty of a violation of the rule was expusion from the league club too, he was suspended for a year. unrelieved by any gleaming steel or nickel.

A slight mistake has been made in some places as to the dates of the national cycle exhibitions for 1897, it having been stated that the shows will be held in January. The board of directors of the National Cycle Board of Trade has passed a resolution recommending that these shows should be held not earlier than February, and the whole matter was left to the Executive Committee. At the rowing regatta which is to take place on Stockton channel on the fore-noon of July 4, under the auspices of the Stockton Athletic Club, that asso-

the Stockton Athletic Club, that association intends to see the Coast records broken in both the junior and senior barge race events. The regatta will consist of five events, which are open to all Coast competitors in the amateur class. There will be the senior and junior shugle scull races, the senior and junior four-oared barge races and the senior out-rigger skiff race, and these five are expected to pretty thoroughly fill up the forenoon with sport.

The course on Stockton channel is without any doubt the best that can be had on the Coast. There is never the least danger but that when a race is announced for a certain day and hour the course will be particularly good, for the water is pretty well up, with every indication that it will remain up until after the day of the regatta. That it will be smooth there is no more doubt than that the sun will rise. A Detailed Description of the New Quarters—Club Notes.

Rapid progress has been made in the past few days in fitting up the new building of the Los Angeles Athletio Club, but there is yet considerable furnishing to do before any idea can be formed of the elegance of the establishment. There are a number of minor details in the furnishing of the building that are not yet completed, but this has not deterred the club from fitting up some of the rooms, and the contractors promise to have their work finished this week. A force of men have been for the past two weeks fitting up the symnasium, which will be one of the most complete on the coast. A description of this department might not be out of place. The room is 57x101 feet and lighted by windows on the north and a glass skylight running the entire length, making the room as light as day. One end of the "sym" will be used as a handball court occupying a space 2x57 feet, while the other end is devoted to a wrestling mat, two stationary boxing rings and a triple punching-bag platform. This leaves a space in the center of 55x67 feet for acrobatic and gymnastic work and for all the appurtenances pertaining thereto.

A double tennis court has been painted on the floor so that indoor tennis tournaments can be indused in. Provisions have also been made for a 24-foot ring in the center of the room, and seating capacity for 1500 people for the club's popular boxing nights on ladies' nights the floor will be cleared and a canvas covering stretched over the same, making the finest hall for "A singular feature of the rules was that the umpire was prohibited from entering the diamond field of play while the ball was in play. Just contrast this crude code of playing rules of twenty years ago—itself greatly in ad-vance of the code of 1860—with the rules vance of the code of 1860—with the rules of 1896, and one can readily perceive how the game has been improved." Tyler and Thomas were.. the opposing pitchers; Tyler, though batted more freely, pitched magnificent ball at critical times. In the sixth inning, with the bases full and one out he sent the next two men to the bench on strikes.

The Wilsons' infield was rather weak, owing to lack of practice and the absence of Guercia.

McBean and Thomas led the battery each landing safely at opportune moments. Franck also pounded out a single in the seventh, scoring two men.
Next Sunday the Wilsons and Trilbys will meet, and a hot game will surely be the result, as the Trilbys have strengthened their team and will endeavor to wipe out some of the former defeats received from the Wilsons.

How Pepsin is Made.

How Pepsin is Made.

(Lewiston Journal:) "Yes," said the drummer in a Maine Central smoking car the other day, as he fished out a nickel and bought a package of pepsin gum. "I yank some occasionally." As he peeled the tin foll off the package he continued: "Ever hear how they get this pepsin? Well, they have a lot of young pigs and they feed 'em away to the top notch till they're feeling just out of sight. Then all to once rations are knocked off for a day of so. The commissary doesn't come 'round. The pigs commence to think they are living on a diet of northwest wind and scenery in the lowest part of Hungry Hollow. When the appetites finally get a buzzsaw edge on, men who wear ear pads and marble hearts come in with palis full of some of the nicest-smelling hot bran mush a pig ever put his nose into. The men stick those pails down near the pens so that each pig can get his nose within about two inches of that mush, and then they hold the pads over their ears and grit their teeth and let the pigs smell and howl. No, they don't get a taste. In a little while the bran is taken away and those pigs go hungry into eternity. The secretion in their stomachs is almost all pure pepsin and that's what they put in this gum. It's good stuff, gents, have a chew on me!" But no one appeared to have any stomach trouble just then.

QUEER DEALINGS.

Reckless Career of a Pasadena Real Estate Speculator.

He is Accused of Wholesale Forgery.

Arrested and Held for Trial—J. R. Veach Admits His Own Dishonesty—His Operations Were Extensive—Clumsy Work.

J. R. Veach is in the County Jail, charged with forgery. A slight error in the mailing of a letter by the County Recorder last Saturday led to the discovery of a series of what look like the ery or a series of what look like the most daring forgeries which have ever been perpetrated in this portion of the State. But for the mistake the bold schemer might have continued his op-erations indefinitely and without fear of detection for the web it most erations indefinitely and without fear of detection, for though his work was clumsily done, it was a cleverly-conceived plan and it is believed to have been going on for at least the last year. By the arrest of the alleged forger, one of the pillars is wrested from a church and a man regarded in the community as a shining example of integrity and honesty is landed behind the bars with the probability of a long term of imprisonment staring him in the face.

J. R. Veach, a well-known real estate man of Pasadena, was locked up in the County Jall yesterday evening. Veach Slater.

Slater called at the residence of Veach on Madison avenue and roused Veach and his wife from bed, telling the former that his presence was desired in Recorder Rossiter's chambers. Veach went without demur, and the Recorder read to him a complaint sworn out by Josiah Russell, charging him with having "on or about May 28, 1896, made, altered, forged and counterfeited a certain identure in writing, namely, an assignment of a mortgage, and that he did then and thereafter corrupt and falsify a certain deed of conveyance, namely, for an assignment of mortgage," and the full charge of a most daring forgery.

Veach replied that he had reassigned the instrument to Russell, and that it was "all right." Recorder Rossiter then read a complaint sworn to by J. C. Williams, charging Veach with counterfeiting a deed of conveyance. Veach admitted both charges, and was held for trial in bonds of $10,000 on the Russell charge.

He was unable to furnish bond, and was lodged in jail and yesterday removed to the County Jail in this city. In the original instrument on which the complaint was issued, Veach appears as the party of the first part, and Russell the party of the first part, and Russell the assignment was signed in the proper place by Veach, in the presence of a notary. Before presenting the paper for record, Veach altered the position of the names, making Russell the assignor, and himself the assignor, and inself the assignor, and record in the proper for record, veach altered the position of the names, making Russell the instrument was recorded, it was returned to Russell, instead of to Veach. The alteration was so clumsily made, that it could be easily detected. Slater called at the residence of Veach was wrong, and went to Veach for an explanation.

Veach professed to know nothing about how the "mistake" occurred, but at Mr. Russell's demand, made a reassignment of the mortgage. Mr. Russell hastened to Los Angeles to have it recorded, and, as a doubt of Veach had arrisen in his mind, made an investigation which revealed the fact that the original note and mortgage were forgeries by Veach.

At this time it is impossible to determine the exact amount of Veach's peculations, but it is thought that the alleged crooked transactions now known of will amount to about $10,000. Four fraudulent transactions involve the names of John Adams, Josiah Russell, Blanche B. Burnham and J. C. Williams. It is thought that many more transac-

Blanche B. Burnham and J. C. Williams. It is thought that many more transactions in which Veach was interested will prove to be fraudulent.

From a comparison of the records in the County Recorder's office with the records of the notaries public, the subjoined will show the extent, as far as is now known, of the alleged forger's operations.

The notaries public are G. G. Johrison and E. E. Cribb of No. 127½ West Second street, and it was before them that Veach made all the acknowledgements.

Their part in the transactions was entirely legitimate and all the alleged crooked work was done by Veach after the acknowledgements were made before them and prior to the filling of the instruments in the Recorder's office.

On March 15, 1895, J. R. Veach, the records show, mortgaged lots Nos. 6, 7 and 8 of Strong & Ealdwin's replat in Pasadena, to Blanche B. Burnham for $2500. Mrs. Burnham was then and is now in South Africa, where her husband, Fred Burnham, is extensively interested in gold mines. The deal was made through Mrs. Burnham's agent, Josiah Russell.

May 15, 1895, there was filed in the Recorder's office a release of this mortgage and here is where the first alleged forgery comes in. Notary Johnson's record shows that the instrument acknowledged before him was executed by Veach himself. The record at the Recorder's office shows that the instrument was executed by Blanche B. Burnham. This is considered conclusive proof of forgery, in so much as Mrs. Burnham was in South Africa at the time.

sive proof of forgery, in so much as Mrs. Burnham was in South Africa at the time.

Veach, in order to cover up the forgery, paid the interest on the mortgage up to the time he was discovered.

To John R. Adams of Pasadena he mortgaged the same property, which really had never been released, for $2000, and the mortgage was filed for record September 17, 1895.

On November 27, 1895, a partial release, for lots 6 and 7, was filed for record, and on May 28 a purported full release of the mortgaged property was filed for record. The instrument was dated May 5, and acknowledged May 22, and purported to be a release of a mortgage from Veach and wife to John Adams. This instrument Veach executed himself, and afterward substituted Adams's name for his own. This instrument was acknowledged before Notary E. E. Cribb. This closes the first transaction and includes two forgeries, that of the names of Adams, who emphatically denies receiving any money for a release, and Mrs. Burnham.

Transaction No. 2 begins February

money for a release, and Mrs. Burnham.

Transaction No. 2 begins February 18, 1898.

On that date R. W. Bryan and wife executed a mortgage in favor of Veach and wife for $3500 on property at the corner of Mountain street and Wilson avenue, Pasadena, known as the Veach & Defriez tract. February 26, Veach assigned a mortgage on this same property to Clark A. Shaw, a real estate man of this city. Shaw reassigned the mortgage to Veach, April 7, 1896, and on the same date. Veach reassigned the mortgage to Josiah Russell, trustee.

On May 28, 1896, was filed a record of the assignment of the mortgage from Russell to Veach. The notary was Cribbs and his record shows that the instrument was acknowledged by Veach. Evidently Veach afterward erased his name and substituted that of Josiah Russell, trustee, as the instruments filed at the Recorder' office shows the erasures and does not correspon with the entry of the notary public.

This transaction proved most unfortunate for Veach, as it was on this that the complaint was sworn to, charg-ing him with forgery.

The third and last transaction, so far The third and last transaction, so far as known positively, deals with an agreement to convey certain property. On November 20, 1895, an agreement was made between J. C. Williams and wife and Veach for the conveyance of lot No. II, in Arminta Thornton's subdivision in Pasadena from Williams to Veach. Acknowledgment was made of the receipt of $100 on the account, the balance, $100, to be paid on or before June 30, 1896.

An instrument was filed January 9, 1896, by which Veach and wife assigned the agreement to Irene Y. Carey for $600, $500 cash and the balance to be paid in one year.

3600. 3500 cash and the balance to be paid in one year.

The extent of this fraudulent transaction has not yet ben cleared up.

A deed of the lot from Williams and wife in favor of Veach was filed for record June 4, 1896. This deed was acknowledged before Notary Cribb, June 1, 1896, and the notary's record shows that it was executed by Veach. The recorder's record shows that the instrument filed bore the name of Williams in Veach's favor.

Another alleged transaction of instrument filed bore the name of Williams in Veach's favor.

Another alleged transaction of Veach's was the purchase from Mr. Ellis of a business corner on Fair Oaks avenue, in Pasadena, but Ellis was fortunate enough to discover that Veach had contracted to trade to nim property which was not hig, and withdrew from the transaction whole.

What may yet develop in the line of forgeries, is scarcely conjectured. Veach admits his guilt in the matters related, and seems to think that friends will come to his aid, but it is likely that he will spend a few years in the penitentiary to meditate over his brilliant financial career in Pasadena. About $10,000 has been counted up as Veach's rake-off since February, 1895, with the record before that time to be investigated.

Veach went to Pasadena from Putnam. Ill., some years ago, and four years ago married Miss Phillips of North Pasadena. He was prominent in the late citizens' campaign, and is an assistant class-leader in the Methodist Church. He has been accounted an honest man, and the news of his double-dealing is a surprise to the community.

for their little domestic disruption. The reunited couple are staying at a Mainstreet hotel and a Times reporter, who called last evening, was readily received by Mrs. Reynolds, a handsome brunette with flashing black eyes and an infectious laugh that was often in requisition as she told her story:

"I am fond of a good time," she said, "and I always have enjoyed myself. Until I was 15 I was in a convent school in Jollet, Ill., and I made up my mind to have some fun when I got out. I came to Los Angeles about three years ago. I had my wild spell here and I hadn't had it out when I got married. We were married in November, 1894. I was never married before and of course I never had a child. Mr. Reynolds couldn't go out as much as I wanted, and finally I made up my mind that I could have a better time if I went away from him. I like to go to the theater and dances, I told him I wanted to go East, and last Tuesday I started, and I thought I was all right. I got off at Saugus and the next morning I came back to Los Angeles to go to Santa Ana. While I was waiting in the depot, Mr. Reynolds came down, but he didn't see me. Oh, but I'm an awfully lucky girl—think of escaping from a policeman.

"Yes, he caught me after all, but he

"Yes, he caught me after all, but he had hard work. I was going to do dressmaking at Santa Ana. I promised not to tell how I was arrested there. You will have to ask Mr. Reynolds. I don't know what we will done he says I can go away if I will come back to him. I don't want to stay here."

back to him. I don't want to stay here."

Officer Reynolds appeared at this juncture, and displayed at once a chivalrous intention to pose as the only one to blame in the matter. "My wife is everything that a man could want. She is very domestic in her tastes. She loves to stay at home and she was very saving and helpful to me. I was in debt and she had to put up with lots of inconveniences. I taxed her a little more than I ought to, for she always went out before we were married, but since then we haven't had the money.

"When Mrs. Reynolds went away she had papers that I had to have. They were in her trunk, though she didn't know it. I can't tell what they were, but they were papers of much value to some of my relatives."

Mrs. Reynolds interposed the remark that the only paper she intended to take was their marriage license. "I took that because I had to have it to get a divorce."

Officer Reynolds evidently did not relish the publicity that had been given to his affairs. "Lots of these stories about me and my wife are only half true. There is no truth in the statement that she was in love with a man in Wallace's circus. I thought she was, but now I am satisfied I was mistaken. I told the reporter of the other morning paper to give The Times a roasting tomorrow. I have seen my wife's letters and I don't blame her a bit."

"U couldn't blame the girl, could you?"

"What could a poor girl do?" sang Mrs. Reynolds, gaily.

Reynolds did not care to talk about his wife's arrest, only saying that the warrant which he took with him was not a legal one, Arm in arm the pair went off to the theater. here."

Runaway Girls.

Saturday night two grief-stricken women, Mrs. Holcomb and Mrs. Oman, entered the Police Station and frantically appealed to Capt. Roberts for help in their sore need. Each woman is the mother of a daughter. Both girls grew tired the restraint of home, and Saturday ran away. They bought tickets for San Francisco and fled from the city together. The mothers have made every possible effort to find their children. Yesterday the two girls, Clara. Oman and Millie Showers, were found in Bakersfield, and the distracted mothers hope to see the girls at home again soon. If the thoughtless young women half realized the agonies of grief their mothers have suffered, it is safe to say they would return to Los Angeles without a moment's delay.

(Spokane Spokesman-Review:) An amusing incident occurred the other day on the Lemon farm, near Garfield, Wash. Burt Lemon and an employé of the farm were plowing, when they came across three young coyote pups which had not yet opened their eyes. While they were examining them the old ones appeared and approached to within fifty yards. Mr. Lemon went to the house for a gun and a sack, and placed the young ones in the sack, which was tied up and left in the field until time to go in from work. The old coyotes kept a respectful distance from the rifle, but hovered around. Several turns of the field were made with the plow, and, finally, when the men came in sight of where they had left the sack containing the young coyotes, they saw one of the old ones with the sack, puppies and all, streaking it over the bill, and that was the last seen of them. The Coyotes Recovered Their Pups.

Rapidly running over his supply of collars, which had just come in from the laundry, he selected one fitted to his purpose.

Five minutes later the great middle bar of the window, dextrously severed by the sawlike edge of the laundered collar, fell apart.

He was free.

CHURCH RECORD.

Strong Sermon on Christian Service-Christ's Manliness,

Does Any Denomination Teach and Keep All the Precepts of the Bible—A Converted Jew. Religious Notes.

At the First Presbyterian Church yesterday, the pastor, Rev. Burt Estes Howard, took as his text, Luke >v, 17. In all our religious thinking there is a tendency to lift our spiritual experience out of the realm of the natural into that of the mysterious. Instead of making the soul development of man an integral part of his progress toward perfection of his being, we are con-stantly led to look upon spiritual attainment as something extra. Man-hood is to be measured in terms of spirit, of soul, of heart; and it is in the hood is to be measured in terms of spirit, of soul, of heart; and it is in the realm of the spiritual that the characteristic element of man lies. It is not in body or circumstance. This was the thing Jesus was always contending for, trying to get the people to bring their thoughts to religion, into the circle of their every day life. To be religious is to live in the consciousness of God, and of our own divine sonship. It is not a thing of formulas and statements and words. So when we come to strip away the rubbish that has accumulated about the word "religion," we see that religion is life, life instinct with God, consciousness, and with a sense of dignity of manhood. So every man comes to himself as he comes to see with a clear vision that his larger life is realized in the measure of his approval to Jesus Christ. For Jesus Christ is God's estimate judgment on humanity. He is God's idea of man.

The church will come to herself, as made up of those who have come to their own individual self-consciousness. She sees that her aggregate or social life is to be made the utterance of the social idea of Jesus as set forth in His thought of the kingdom.

UNITY.

A sermon on the question, "Does Any Denomination Teach and Keep All the Precepts of the Bible?" was preached by the pastor, Rev. J. S. Thomson, from the text, "Did not Moses give you the law, and yet none of you keepeth the law? Why go ye about to kill Me?" John vii, 19.

If the Bible be inspired, then all the precepts are inspired; and, if all the precepts be inspired, then the precepts of the Old Testament have divine claims upon our obedience. It follows, then, that every one that accepts the Bible as an inspired volume in all its parts must to be consistant, obey every precept in the Old Testament. While all the orthodox denominations profess their belief in the infallibility and inspiration of the entire Bible, yet not one of them keeps all the precepts. The logic and consistency of orthodox denominations pass human comprehension. The orthodox denominations strive to justify their course in not keeping divine and inspired statutes by saying that they are not binding upon us, and that we are living under a new dispensation that does not require us to obey mosaic precepts. require us to obey mosaic precepts. But it is plainly stated in the books of Moses that these statutes are perpetual and binding upon all generations, and the most dreadful curses are pronounced by Jehovah upon those who do not keep these commandments. If we have outlived these statutes, they are obsolete, and have no claims upon us, and that shows that an inspired law may become obsolete, and that an inspired statute can be outlived! The New Testament is in opposition to the Old Testament, and the gospel conflicts with the law of Moses in many particulars. If any one will read Romans, Galations, Colossians, Hebrews and the four gospels, he will see the proofs of the opposition of the New Testiment to the Old Testiment. The gospel of Christ is infallible, inspired and perfect, and many of the old precepts have been rendered obsolete thereby. The books of Moses are interesting as the history of dead creeds. God never inspired a statute that can be outlived.

FIRST CHRISTIAN. Rev. A. C. Smither preached upon "Christian Service" from the text: "The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister and to give His Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister and to give His life a ransom for many." The example of Jesus Christ must always be the inspiration, the motive, the incentive to Christian service. While heavenly creatures delighted to minister to His needs His whole life was given to earthly ministrations. He was humanity's great physician ministering to the suffering sons of toil. His ministry extended to teaching the igmorant, enlightening the depraved and dissipating the darkness of error.

As Christ came as a servant, even so the true, mission of the Christian in the world is not to be ministered to, not to be an object of care and solicitude to the church, but to minister to others, to aid the weak and uplift the fallen in the struggle of life. True Christian service is life-giving. It is expending life powers, vigor, vitality, life itself. The highest service is that which lays upon the altar all our powers and devotes them to the good of our fellow-men. It is this in its fullest sense that differentiates Christ from all living creatures, and placed Him upon a pinnacle as the world's Redeemer, the world's Savior. Such a service by man must lead to suffering, as it did in the life of the Master. The ministry of Christ was full to overflowing with joy, gladness, peace, a heavenly service was the suffering with joy, gladness, peace, a heavenly service was the surface of the surfa renity that was undisturbed by man. Even so the Christian's joys in the service of the Master are more supreme than any this world can give. Our service in this world fits us for higher service in the life that reaches beyond the grave.

PACIFIC GOSPEL UNION.
Superintendent C. S. Mason spoke on "The Manliness of Christ." He was courteous, a true mark of a gentleman. He was faithful as between man and man. He kept His word. He pleased not Himself, but lived for others; He was tender, loving, sympathising and forglving; He represented the true brotherhood of man, and the love of God. He was obedient even unto the death of the cross. He was pure, that man might be pure. He gives strength for weakness, help for the helpless. He becomes the believer's wisdom, righteousness, sanctification and redemption.

CENTRAL PRESHYTERIAN.

Rev. Dr. Fowler, the pastor, preached at Y.M.C.A. Hall Sunday morning to a large audience. He took as his text, Haggai, i, 2, where the Lord upbraids is rated for saying "The time is not come, the time that the Lord's house should be built."

They were going to settle future events by the slate, just as some in our day have tried and falled. Or perhaps with some it was only intended to express the opinion that the time was unfavorable. They pleaded hard times, talked of their poverty and insufficiency for such a financial strain. The fact that the Lord complained of their jiving in their celled houses while his house lay waste, would confirm this view.

Thus is it that many a good cause suffers as much from its professed friends as its foes.

When heroic men branch out for fresh conquest today, hundreds stand back shaking their heads, squeezing their purses and saying the time is not yet. Our work is pushed, our plans prosper, our houses are built. Are then the foundations of the Lord's house to lie bare?

You anticipate the speaker's application of this thought to our own church and its efforts to provide lot and building. This enterprise is upon us. The women have said "Yes" to it by, a pledge of $1000. The Endeavor Society says "Yes" by another handsome pledge. A loud "Yes" to it by, a pledge of $1000. The Endeavor Society says "Yes" by another handsome pledge. A loud "Yes" was uttered by eight men with an aggregate subscription of $300, and only a limited number of, others carry the amount beyond the $5000 mark.

Are we then to be timid? Shall we talk "hard times?" Which is best, to play "faint heart" or to with the stalk "hard times?" Which is best, to play "faint heart" or to with the stalk "hard times?" Which is best, to play "faint heart" or to with the stalk "hard times?" Which is best, to play "faint heart" or to with the stalk "hard times?" which is best, to play "faint heart" or to with the stalk "hard times."

tion of $3300, and only a limited number of others carry the amount beyond the $5000 mark.

Are we then to be timid? Shall we talk "hard times?" Which is best, to play "faint heart." or to push for success, show ourselves what we can do, prove to others that we are worthy of being entrusted with stewardship in this downtown field, and by our very faith, persistency and sacrifice win the outside aid that shall bring victory? Every consideration is saying this is the time to advance. Who would think of stopping in disgrace when we have begun so well? No, the very fact that the Lord is giving so generally the mind to give, assures us this people are ready to go forward.

But the text is not limited to giving alone. In it is the lesson that we may be right in thought but wrong in action. We may see and feel just hew we might and ought to live, but with the truth urgently pressing its claims, we say "not yet." Our influence over that intimate friend ought to be no longer a harm but a help to him. We ought to stamp out that oft-repeated sin: Yes, all this ought to be done, we say, but it is not done. We will some tine; we will soon, but not now. This indolent indecision loses opportunities for us. It blasts our usefulness. It dwarfs our spiritual stature. Would we mightily increase in moral power, then here is the prescription, when we first have the conviction that we ought to do a certain thing, go at once and do it. Be true to conscience—obey and grow.

SIMPSON TABERNACLE,
Hermann Warszawick, the famous converted Jew, preached last evening at Simpson Tabernacle to an audience that packed the house to the roof. He took as his text Rom. i. 16, "I am not ashamed of the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone who believeth, the Jew first and also to the Greek." The preacher gave the narration of his own conversion and that of his wife, who was for six years separated from him because of his belief, but has now accepted it herself, and is living and laboring with her husband in the American Hebrew-Christian Mission.

Mr. Warszawick is superintendent and general secretary of the American Mission to the Jews, with headquarters in New York. SIMPSON TABERNACLE.

AMUSEMENTS TONIGHT. ORPHEUM-Vaudeville

OREGON'S OBJECT LESSON.

The first Congressional election of the year in Oregon is over, and while the wounded are being taken to the hospital and the killed are being buried beyond all hope of resurrection, we may survey the battlefield with uneyes. Oregon was once so strongly a Democratic State that an election was virtually settled in the ominating conventions, and the people clamored for a change. From a State that had two Democratic Senators and one Democratic member of the lower house as late as 1879, it became a State good for 10,000 Republican majority, on any direct issue, in 1890. Her overwhelming strength

Whenever a party becomes so power ful that a nomination is equivalent to an election, that party is in danger. For the choice of officers is taken out of the hands of the people at the ballot box and placed in the hands of the diverted from the national Republican professional politicians, who manipu late and control conventions. Such was the case in Oregon where the smoke of a great political battle is now clearing away. The Oregon election is the self-emancipation of the people from boss rule in the conven

Never was a city worse plundered than Portland has been, for the sake of supporting "the machine." One of the bosses, now happily deposed, was an almost illiterate blacksmith who got the appointment of Collector of the Port under Mr. Harrison and was subsequently convicted of smuggling and Chinese into the very port of which he was collector. Another was the lawfully wedded husband of a woman of the town, while a third, who worked the fire department in the interest of the ring, was a prize fighter who had his nose broken by the redoubtable Jack Dempsey. For four years a saloon-keeper, who came to that city in 1882 with less than $10 in his pocket, has been deriving a revenue of $500 through his "pull" in allowing fare games to run night and day, as they did in '49. An honest old steamboat pilot was chosen Chief of Police and endeavored to suppress these dens of iniquity. In less than ninety days he was removed from office at the instigation of the bosses. who stood in need of the gamblers' votes on election day.

The consequence is that a Populist Mayor has been elected for the big city of Portland just because the last Republican Mayor, although a merchant and presumably reputable as a citizen, stood in with the ring and allowed the tax-eaters to keep the treasury continually empty. One of the Republican nominees for Congress beaten beyond doubt and the fate of the other still hangs in jeopardy. And all this in a State which gave Harrison over 7000 majority in 1888 and which has just elected a Republican Supreme Judge by nearly 10,000 majority, for no other reason than that was known to be an hopest man. Is the Oregon election of any value to Los Angeles county as an object on? Do not the intelligent voters in the Republican party see, written plainly on the wall, the doom of that party if professional manipulation of conventions are allowed to go on in the future as they have done in the past? With a City Council handled by the hireling emissaries of the Southern Pacific Company and a Mayor whose ability is limited to drawing his salary, the Republican voters have not much to be proud of, certainly. There is a deep disgust and a widely-spread spirit of dissatisfaction at the way in which municipal affairs have been conducted in the past two years. If the ring managers persist in putting up such pliant tools as the present Mayor and Council for re-election, the people will defeat them and the next Mayor will either be a Democrat or a Populist. The Oregon drama will be re-enacted in Los Angeles and the ringsters will have only themselves to thank for it.

The co-operation of all good citizens is The members of the City Council who voted in favor of the Huntington steal of $3,000,000 will probably not be to the city which is proud of him as an honest, brave and brainy legislator conspicuous at the reception to Sena-ter White on his return home, but "Uncle Collis" will be along this way one of these days, and then they can just fairly sling themselves!

SILVER MEN CONTROL

They Will Undoubtedly Have a Good Majority at Chicago.

Kentucky Settled the Question Beyond Reasonable Doubt.

nservative Analysis of the Situa tion Gives the Silver Democrats Over Five Hundred Votes.
The Silver Strength.

(Washington Post:) The result in Kentucky Saturday, when the silver Democrats practically swept the State, makes it absolutely certain that the free-colnage men will be in the majority at the Chicago convention. If the unit rule is enforced in various States where the gold advocates have a few delegates the majority may run as high as 150. Under the most conservative estimate it. st conservative estimate i nnot be less than 75.

The first intimation of this control of the silver element was given in these epiumns nearly two months ago. At that time the prediction was met with much incredulity and reserve among much incredulity and reserve among politicians generally, and with indignant denial on the part of spokesmen for the administration. Although at that time Oregon was the only State in which the Democrats had met in State convention, and the future was to a large extent roblematical, the events which have nce happened have proved that the forecast was accurate to a remarkable elegates-and this is dependent entirely upon the number admitted from Territories and the District of Columbia—the majority will be 456. This is accurate enough for all practical purposes. Of this majority the silver men are absolutely sure that the following States will go to the convention with solid delegations pledged to free coinage:

22 North Dakota Oregon South Carolina Tennessee 22 Total

Even in this conservative estimate, based on delegations from silver States only, the silver Democrats lack but twenty-six votes of the requisite majority. That the table is conservative will be readily appreciated when it is observed that it does not include a State be readily appreciated when it is observed that it does not include a State where there is probability of a divided delegation, nor any State where the result is the least in doubt.

Nearly all of the States mentioned have already held their conventions and declared their positions. This is peculiarly the case with Iowa, which was claimed both for gold and silver, until the action of the State convention settled the question beyond all peradventure. In Alabama, it will be remembered, heroic efforts were made by Secretary Herbert and other official friends of the administration, and the State was claimed by them for the gold standard up to the very hour when it flopped was claimed by them for the gold standard up to the very hour when it flopped completely into the silver ranks. Illinois, too, is now conceded to the silver men, the opposing faction having abandoned the battle and declined to participate in the primaries. Secretary Carlisle's speeches and Comptroller Eckels's labors have gone for naught. In Louislana, where no convention has yet been held, the result is already discounted. There is no doubt of the existence, in the New Orleans district especially, of a sound-money sentiment, called; but the gold men concede secality, or a sound-money sentiment, so-called; but the gold men concede a majority for silver, while the free-coinage advocates claim the State four to one. The election of a United States Senator who, to quote Senator Carlery, is "crazy on the silver question," is an indication of the sentiment among the Democrats in the State.

Having thus shown that there is a nucleus of over 430 votes which cannot be trenched upon unless the silver organization absolutely collapses, there remains to be determined how much additional strength will be given to silver in other States.

Ther are at least three States not already mentioned which will stand overwhelmingly, although not solidly, for silver. These are Ohlo, Indiana and Georgia. In Ohlo the result will practically be a landslide. Two months ago, when Ex-Gov. Campbell of Ohlo, was in Washington, he said that his State would split even on the silver question. For this assertion he was laughed to scorn. The condition of affairs now would split even on the silver question. For this assertion he was laughed to scorn. The condition of affairs now manifest in Ohio proves that he only erred in being too conservative. Senator Brice, who went into the fight with considerable enthusiasm and much hope of victory, has been slaughtered, so to speak, in almost every precinct, and has not escaped defeat in his own county. It is now doubtful whether he will go to the convention as a delegate. Senator Jones of Arkansas, who is keeping his touch on the silver pulse with great fidelity, places the standing of a delegation at thirty-six for silver to ten against, but he says this is giving the gold men four more votes than they will probably get. The delegation may stand forty for silver to six against; but, in order to be on the conservative side, five Congress districts will be accorded the gold men in the estimate of strength now being made.

In Indiana one district will certainly conservative side, nye Congress districts will be accorded the gold men in the estimate of strength now being made.

In Indiana one district will certainly be against silver. This is the Indianapolis district. It is possible, but not probable, that the gold Democrats will also hold two other districts. The very lowest figure, therefore, of the silver strength in the delegation is twenty-four, provided that the unit rule is not enforced to give the entire State to the silver column. In Georgia, too, something depends upon the adoption of the unit rule. When Ex-Senator Patrick Walsh of Georgia, who is to be one of the delegates at-large, was in Washington a few days ago, he predicted that the unit rule would be passed, but, on the other hand, there is known to be some sentiment against this action. Giving the benefit of the doubt to the gold men, the delegation will stand, according to the most favorable estimate of Secretary Hoke Smith, who has been giving the campaign in the State a great deal of his personal attention, twenty for silver to six aginst. The gold men hardly expect to carry more than three Congress districts, and even this is not conceded to them by the silver men.

In Weat Virginia it was asserted two months ago that the delegation would be equally divided. In that State each of the four districts elects two district delegates and one delegate-at-large, twelve in all. Two districts have always been conceded to the silver men, and Senator Faulkner said yesterday that the declarations of three counties in the Second District made it extremely probable that three districts would send silver delegates, leaving only the First District, which is controlled by the city of Wheeling on the side of the gold standard. The Second District is the one which Postmaster-General Wilson formerly represented in Congress, and his own county of Jefferson has gone for silver. In the State of Washington, where the convention his already been held, the delegation stands five to three for silver.

ided States may, therefore, be summed .430 West Virginia.. 20 Total

Here, then, are over 500 votes, not counting Florida, where the gold men may be victorious, or Nebraska, where there will be two delegations.

The strength of the gold sentiment is centered, with a few exceptions, in the North and East. The States that will send solid anti-silver delegations are as follows:

In addition to this impregnable gold phalanx, there there will be some scattering votes for gold in States otherwise devoted to sliver, which will swell the aggregate gold strength as follows: Prevolus total334 West Virginia Ohio 10 Washington Total

Georgia Total Tota

To what extent would such a declaration be an expression of the sentiment of the Democratic voters of the country?

This very important question can be answered in two ways. First, by showing that a very large proportion of the votes for silver in the national convention will come from States that are always in the Democratic column; and, secondly, by demonstrating that the Democratic party is now and always has been, as evidenced by the votes of its representatives in Congress, in favor of the free coinage of silver.

Twenty-two States will send solid silver delegates to the national convention. These States cast 192 votes in the electoral college. Of this number 113 are given by States that have invariably gone Democratic in national elections. If Georgia and West Virginia are added, as they should be, for their delegations will contain a majority of silver men, their nineteen electoral votes could make 132 in all, leaving but a small proportion of States on the side of silver that are not Democratic. On the other hand, Pennsylvania, with its sixty-four votes for gold, is Republican to the core, and could not come within a thousand miles of contributing to the election of a Democratic President. The same is true of New England, with the exception of Connecticut, New York, which is against silver, is a doubtful State, and its electoral vote has always, it is true, been essential to Democratic success under ordinary conditions.

With the exception of New York, which is neither unswervingly Republican nor Democratic, and Connecticut. New Jork, which is against silver. In States, This is a fact not without significance in the present condition of affairs.

In Congress, too, the Democrats have always predominated on the side of silver. This record could be shown at considerable length if it were necessary, but a few specimen votes will be sufficient to prove the assertion.

On June 28, 1876, twenty years ago, a proposition by a Democratic Representative to coin standard silver dollars as legal tender was adopted:

On March 5, 1878, on the Springer bill for free coinage, 105 Democrats voted yea and 25 voted nay.
On April 9, 1886, on a free coinage proposition, 130 Democrats voted for silver and 33 against.
On June 25, 1890, 113 Democrats voted for free coinage to 22 against.
And so it has been ever since, that both in the House and the Senate, with the single exception of the vote by hoth in the House and the Senate, with the single exception of the vote by which the repeal of the Sherman silver-purchasing law was accomplished, the majority of the Democratic party has been found favoring silver. In view of what may happen at Chicago, it is, perhaps, worth emphasizing that it is the silver and not the gold Democrats who constitute the great bulk of the party, and whose votes are cast in the States which contribute to the election of a Democratic President.

of a Democratic President.

The great drift of the Democratic party has been toward silver for these twenty years or more, as it had been The great drift of the Democratic party has been toward silver for these twenty years or more, as it had been before the war. This is as plain as a pikestaff. The great uprising in the party within the last few months must be accounted for, however, on some other ground than long-enduring sentiment. The causes are not hard to find. Primarily, of course, the silver sentiment has been fostered by the prevalence of the hard times. Low prices for farm products, and a widespread stagnation in business circles has led to a restlessess which seeks change in almost any direction. It has been fostered, too, by the issuance of bonds and a consequent increase of the public debt, to the great advantage of gold syndicates and the burdening of the poor. It is somewhat singular, however, that to the one man who has been most active in the warfare against free silver must the spread of the silver sentiment be charged in a very large degree. The very hostility of President Cleveland to silver has aroused to equal bitterness the friends of the white metal. The awakening came when the President to thoses for the coinage of the seigniorage in the Treasury. This was a bill to convert into standard dollars the silver in the treasury which represented the difference between the coined and the builton value of the metal which had been purchased under the Sherman law. It was builton in the possession of the government; it was lying idle, and even the conservative Democrats believed that the country could gradually absorb $55,000,000 more silver without danger. The President's veto was more than unusually emphatic. He refused to issue the silver, and soon after borrowed money upon interest-bearing bonds in order to recuperate a gold reserve that had been drained to meet the expenses of the government.

The recent silver movement, if it can be traced to any one episode, can be cuperate a gold reserve that had been drained to meet the expenses of the government.

The recent silver movement, if it can be traced to any one episode, can be said to have begun with the President's veto of the Seigniorage Bill. As between free coinage and no silver at all, which was the way in which the great mass of the Democrats suddenly awoke to a realization of the situation, the pendulum began to swing to the free coinage side.

The silver-movement has been intensified also because President Cleveland has refused to publicly declare his intention not to be a candidate for a third term, and because of the administration at the Michigan State Convention. As long ago as last summer the friends of the President began to labor in nearly every State in the Union to capture the delegations from those States. Their of the President began to labor in nearly every State in the Union to capture the delegations from those States. Their purpose, thinly disguised, was to control the nomination of the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, even if they did not go so far as to nominate Mr. Cleveland himself. This movement created general suspicion and distrust. The nudden and "pernicious activity."

every Federal office-holder throughou the United States was resented as being part of an organized effort to again place Mr. Cleveland at the head of the party ticket. Cleveland stood for gold The opposition flocked to the silve party ticket. Cleveland stood for gold. The opposition flocked to the silver standard, not always because it favored silver, but because it was anti-administration. If the President had at any time within the last six months made a plain and unequivocal declaration of his purpose not to accept a nomination under any circumstances whatever, he would have cut a wide swath in the silver ranks. As between free coinage of silver and another campaign with Cheveland as the nominee, the great mass of the Democrats chose the former with alacrity and enthusiasm. It is too late now for the President to repair the damage that he has done the cause of so-called "sound money." The lines have been drawn and the fight is on.

Certain disclosures which have been made regarding the action of the administration forces at the Michigan Democratic Convention have aroused bitter feeling in the West, although they have these applies of the side of the sound sound they have these applies of the side of the sound they have these applies of the side of the side

Certain disclosures which have been made regarding the action of the administration forces at the Michigan Democratic Convention have aroused bitter feeling in the West, although they have not been published with any detail in the East. In a letter to Senator Vest, written by George P. Hummer, a leading silver Democrat of Michigan, a remarkable story is related. He says that on the night when the Michigan convention declared for gold and adopted the unit rule Elliott G. Stevenson, a law partner of Don M. Dickinson, while boasting of the way in which the silver men had been defeated, told him of the part which President Cleveland had in the affair. Mr. Stevenson said that Mr. Cleveland telegraphed him to come to Washington, and when he arrived here told him that the State must declare against silver and indorse the administration. Mr. Stevenson said that he replied that the State was very largely for silver; that even Kent county, out of which Mr. Uhl had been appointed Ambassafor to Germany, had gone for silver; that there was no way in which to prevent the election of a large majority of free-silver delegates, but that if the President insisted he thought that "the State could be stolen for the administration." The President idid insist, Mr. Stevenson went on to say, and gave him carte blanche to use the postmasters and Federal officials, had many of them agree to run as silver candidates for the State convention, with the understanding that they should vote against silver when they were elected. According to Mr. Hummer this programme was carried out, and with the result everybody is familiar.

Less hostility and less activity on the part of the administration would have robbed the silver movement of half its robbed the silver movement of half its force.

In addition to these indirect but powerful forces is the fact that the silver campaign has had the advantage of organization. The friends of silver have been alert and enthusiastic, working for the success of an idea dear to their hearts. More than a year ago they, began to outline a plan of campaign, which they have adhered to with great pertinacity. It is true that the ground which they started to cultivate was fertile and ready for the seed, but persistent, well-directed, and effective organization has brought forth the fruit, every State has been a vineyard into which the laborers have gone, caring naught whether they received their penny a day or whether they contributed their services without reward. They have been actuated by an inspiration which, difficult as it may be to appreciate, turns the faces of men to appreciate, turns the faces of men to ward the Holy Land when Jerusalem is in Saracenic chains.

On the other hand, wherever the ad-ward the Holy Land when Jerusalem is in Saracenic chains.

On the other hand, wherever the alministration has made a fight for the gold standard it has drafted into its service its appointees, and has found in them very frequently half-hearted and indifferent supporters unable to cope with the energy born of enthusiasm, which has been a powerful factor in the spread of the silver cause.

Notwithstanding the odds against them, the Democrats who are opposed to free coinage will continue to make them, the Democrats who are opposed to free coinage will continue to make their fight up to the very moment the platform is adopted at Chicago.

It is true that the recent trend of events has taken much of the backbone out of the sound money men. Senator Brice, who was going to Chicago to trample the silver banner under foot out of the sound money men. Senator Brice, who was going to Chicago to trample the silver banner under foot, is to be discredited at home. Senator Hill was also anxious to figure as the leader of the gold forces, but his enthusiasm has been weakened by the thought of fighting a losing cause. Secretary Herbert, who fought valmly but gallantly in Alabama, is still hopeful that free silver will not prevail, and another administration official. Assistant Secretary Hamlin, from the Republican State of Massachusetts, was moved not long ago in an interview to predict that that sound money would prevail at Chicago because the "better sense of the Democratic party would assert itsek."

The silver forces at Chicago will have the advantage of being well organized under determined leaders and of having been directly pledged to stand upon the silver idea. Notwithstanding this, the programme of the administration Democrats is to undermine the silver delegates by two arguments. The first will be that a free silver candidate cannot be elected under any circumstances, and the second will be that upon a free silver platform the Democrats will be unable to raise any money for the campaign.

The first argument is problematical, ver platform the Democrats will be unable to raise any money for the campaign.

The first argument is problematical, but probably true. The second is absolutely certain. If the Democrats array themselves on the side of free coinage of silver, they will find the commercial and spancial interests in hostility to them. Hardly a cent will be supplied in New York, and the great cities which have been accustomed to contribute largely will not subscribe a dollar. There is a strong sentiment for silver, but campaigns are not run on sentiment. Where the Democrats will have nothing, the Republicans will revel in superabundance. The very arms that withhold support from the Democrats will be stretched to their fullest extent in order to afford assistance to the Republicans.

To the silver men, therefore, the administration Democrats will say that a free-coinage platform and candidate means a minority of electoral votes and absolutely, no money wherewith to run the campaign. It remains to be seen whether such arguments as these will have any effect upon the delegates when they come together.

The silver outlook at Chicago is perplexing the Republicans. They are anxious and worried, Many of their prominent men here in Washington do not hesitate to ray that a free-coinage Democrat can come very near to defeating McKinley. One of McKinley's manhight be dangerous to place McKinley in a platform declaring for gold alone, the gold men may dominate might be dangerous to place McKiniey on a platform declaring for gold alone, and it the gold men may dominate the Republican convention, and may make a plank of their own liking.

In this perplexity, it is said that the writing of the financial plank of the platform will be intrusted to Senator if his Sherman No. a could be more adroit than he in putting up a plank that will show gold on one side and silver on the other, or a mixture of both, according to the point of view. The fact that it was prepared by Senator Sherman would satisfy the business and financial world, while a squint toward. "international bimetallism," which is a play upon words which may or may not fool the people, will make it palatable to those who do not want to be classed in the category of "goldbugs."

it palatable to those who do not want to be classed in the category of "goldbugs."

Senator Burrows of Michigan believes that the outlook for Republican success with a free coinage Democrat in the field is dubleus. So does Senator Lodge of Massachusetts. So do a score of others, including Senator Gallinger, who has been recently mentioned as the possible chairman of the Republican Nasional Committee. The discussion of this contingency would require more space than this already lengthy review can afford. In brief, however, it seems to me that the doubt of these Republicans is not well founded. Party ties will, of course, be broken, but the loss on the Democratic side will not be offset by gains. The Cleveland administration gold standard Democrat would rather, as a general rule, vote with the Republican party than with his own, provided he has not had his own way in the Democratic councils. In Kentucky, where half a dozen gold Democratis in the Legisature prevented the election of a silver Senator, thousands in the Democratic rank and file will either vote for the Republican nominee or else will not vote at all. Under this contingency Kentucky would go Republican. The same conditions exactly prevail in Missouri and in Illinois. In Virginia the other day from the primaries. In Chicago, out of all the Democrats in that city, less than 5000 voted at the primaries. The gold men staid away. This is the condition among the Democrats all over the country.

With the Republicans, on the other hand the situation is a figurative to the stream of the stream than 5000 voted at the primaries. The gold men staid away. This is the condition among the Democrats all over the country.

With the Republicans, on the other hand, the situation is different. As a whole, they believe that the election of McKinley will bring prosperity, and they already regard his election as an assured fact. With them, except as to a few mining States, silver is not an issue. Protection is to them the stepping-stone to better times. They will have no adequate reason to desert their own party on the very threshold of its return to power and ally themselves with a party whose success is not only doubtful, but whose issue may not, after all, be the panacea it is claimed to be. It is true that some Republican States would go Democratic—Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Utah and Nevada, for instance. These agare, however, only fifteen electoral votes of New Jersey and Connecticut, which would surely go Republican.

But whatever the result may be, there is no doubt that the great mass of people would like to see the Republicans declare for gold and the Democratic convention be equally outspoken for the free coinage of both metals. The campaign would be interesting to say the Jeast, and the result one way or the other would settle a question now surrounded with a thick veil of speculation and uncertainty.

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Yesterday was a great day for fish in the mountains. By tomorrow a har of stories may be expected.

Santa Ana may before long own her own electric lighting system. An elec-tion has been called to vote bonds for the equipment of an up-to-date plant.

A night watchman, hired to guard store yesterday afternoon gutted by fire, distinguished himself last night by trying to pour oil into a lighted lamp. The result was that he set the building on fire a second time and came near completing the work of destruction of

Some measures should be adopted looking to better water service in the elevated portions of the city. Had it not been for a lack of water, Saturday night's fire would not have been so destructive. That a man can drink from the pozzle of a hose when an engine is doing its best work shows a weakness in the waterworks that a Bourbon would condemn.

The value and desirability of crude oil as a fuel is further evidenced by the oil as a rue is further evidence by the efforts large consumers are making to develop oil property. A street-railway company is having several wells drilled and a big brewery firm has been producing the oil for its own consumption for several months. Other important consumers may soon enter the field as ners may soon enter the field as

The inadequacy of the cable to do business in emergencies was shown during Saturday night's fire. Crowds filled the street at both ends of the line and the cars on Temple street stood motion less, being unable to go beyond the fir on account of hose beind laid across the tracks. Thousands of spectators walked out to the burning district, being una-ble to secure conveyances. Had that line been electrized a reversal of the trolley would have permitted rapid trips to and fro and the convenient transportation of the waiting crowds. A cable cannot be reversed and its stop page results in a suspension of trans portation and much profanity.

Struggling oil producers met with serious blow in Saturday night's fire. It is unfortunate they should have been made the victims of a conflagra been made the victims of a conflagra-tion at a time when the future seemed propitious for recovering some of the heavy losses incurred during periods of greatest depression. Five months ago greatest depression. Five months ago oil was begging on the market at from twenty-five to thirty cents a barrel. During the past few weeks a steady advance has been made, until consumers are now striving to make con tracts at prices ranging above $1 a barrel. From imminent ruin a possibility of ultimate wealth se most within reach of the oil-begrimed tollers. While the fire occasioned severe loss, yet it was not in the nature of disaster to the field. Only about 3 per cent. of the derricks in the field were destroyed and a conservative esti-mate places the loss of oil at less than 3000 barrels, nearly one-third of which flowed into an oil lake and will be recovered. There are hundreds of tanks in the field and but ten were burned. As previously stated, the loss is a severe individual one, but not a field ca

ITALIAN PICNIC.

Annual Jollification of the Garibal-di Society.

The Garbaldi Society held its annual picnic at Arroyo Seco yesterday. The festivities began at 10 o'clock in the morning and continued till evening.

About a thousand people were present and the barbecue was ample for the aggregate appetite. Dancing was the chief attraction at the pavilion, and was kept up all day, except during the time of the tombola, in which some fifty valuable prizes were distributed. Representatives of nearly all of the prominent French, Spanish and Italian families of the city were present.

Gin Suey was arrested by Officers Sparks and Hubbard at 7 o'clock yes-terday evening for selling lottery tick-ets on Center Place. The Chinaman de-posited 550 cash bail at the Police Sta-tion and was released.

A FAKE SHOW.

White Mahatmas Greeted with Heots

Hoots, hisses and Cat-Calls

Hoots, hisses and cat-calls were the only means by which the audience at the Los Angeles Theater last evening was able to express its over-wrought feelings, as the dreary show of the "White Mahatmas" dragged its wobbly length along through the hours. As a rule, the average Los Angeles audience leaves much to be desired in the point of courtesy even to a good thing, but last evening it was neither to hold nor to bind. It suffered from a sense of personal injury in having paid out good, sound coin of the realm to see the flattest sort of a fake, and it expressed its wrath in unmeasured terms.

pressed its wrath in unmeasured terms.

The bills announced the engagement of the White Mahatmas "and their excellent company." The so-called "Mahatmas" were there all right enough, but the company was conspicuous by its absence. All the hair-rising feats were performed by the unaided efforts of "Prof." and Mme. Andoor, and the audience either laughed or yawned at every fresh exhibition of "science." It is especially explained to the public that Prof. and Mine. Andoor wish it understood that they do not claim to possess any occult, spirifual or supernatural power. The explanation is superfluous, as the dullest understanding would never dream of attributing power of any description either to the "professor" or his wife.

Last evening after an apparently interminable wait, enlivened only by a jingling plane solo, and a trio by the "Serenaders" that was too pretty to be wasted on such an occasion, the curtain rose on a ricomy cavern built of be wasted on such an occasion, the curtain rose on a gloomy cavern built of black cambric, in which a mysterious gentleman, clad in a colonial dress suit of white satin, cavorted breezily around, summoning wooden vases, rubber balls, barrels and flower-pots into existence out of the ambient air, or from behind soreens and curtains. After toying for a time with these small deer, to the music of a distressingly modern waltz, the mild-mannered Faust waved away his assortment of household furniture, and summoned a skull and a skeleton, with which cheerful guests the necromancer had a sociable cup of tea, to the tune of a funeral march. The skeleton was somewhat unwieldy and awkward in its motions, but the skull was particularly frisky and accommodating, and gyrated about in mid-air as fast as its wires could carry it.

After this mysterious and thrilling exhibition of the horrors of the infernal regions, the curtain fell, and J. M. Shawhan filled in the gap between acts by singing "Just for Tonight." Mr. Shawhan sang it well, as usual, but the feelings of the audience were not to be suppressed, especially as the tile of the song fitted the occasion too well for the joke to be passed over.

Next came some "bizarre and novel cabinet eccentricities" that fully carried out the name. Three ponderous and respectable citizens were summoned from the audience to vouch for the genuineness of the miracles about to be performed, and two of them were placed with Mme. Andoor in front of the cabinet was a galvanized iron pall, which contained a few dinner bells and some artificial flowers and a full-grown guitar. The curtains were drawn and two of the committee, looking particularly sheepish, were planted in chairs just in front of the mysterious draperies. The "professor" then proceeded to put them to bed and to tuck them in by pinning a large sheet around them so as to leave only their heads uncovered. Then everybody awalted evelopments. A bell rang, then another tumbled down on the floor; then the guitar and a bunch of paper r

Pause and Reflect.

BLOOMINGTON (Cal.,) June 5, 1896.—
(To the Editor of The Times.) We are nearing the close of the nineteenth century. We have only one more President of the United States to elect during its existence; only one more opportunity to promulgate those principles of government that will best contribute to our interests and well being as a nation and in the light of history, and our present experience we should pause to look around us and reflect before we heedlessly rush across the threshold of the twentieth century. In this connection there are two or three thoughts I wish briefly to present. Up to date, 1896, the political crime of the nineteenth century was committed on the day of the national election in 1892. God, as Henry Waterson says, permitted the essassination of Abraham Lincoln, the best friend the South ever had, in order that those engaged in it might drink the full measure of the bitter dregs of slavery; so it would seem that he has in His infinite wisdom allowed the people of the United States to experience, as they certainly have in the last four years, or now nearly so, the blighting and withering influences of free trade, or its synonymn tariff reform, in order that, like having the smallpox, they might never be affected by it again. It is a severe remedy, but fortunately it is not, like some political remedies of modern politiclans, worse than the discasse.

It has been of late clearly manifest by the almost manifest.

is not, like some political remedies of modern politicians, worse than the disease.

It has been of late clearly manifest by the almost unanimous choice of William McKinley for the nominee of the Republican party for President, that a large majority of the people have done with free trade notions forever.

Maj. McKinley has been selected by the rank and file of the Republican party, which has been largely augmented by sensible reform Democrats (not tariff reform) in spite of the political bosses; not because he is William McKinley, although a grand, good man, but for the reason that he is more immediately identified with the protection idea of our government and his selection emphasizes that principle more than that of any other man.

The indications have been favorable for the people to restore at, the next national election in this year of grace, 1896, our country to its normal condition of prosperity. But in view of recent desperate efforts to direct attention

BLACK CARNATIONS.

They Are as Scarce as White Black "Black Carnations? Well I guess not," said a Broadway flower-dealer who has made a specialty of raising carnations for the past eight years. " know some people claim to have grown them, but there's no such thing as a black carnation—not unless they get out at night and paint 'em. You can black carnation—not unless they get out at night and paint 'em. You can get a very dark red, but you might as well hunt for hen's teeth as for a genuine black carnation. You can't get a dark yellow, either, but I have often grown a light yellow, about corn color. People say that any flower that runs to reds and yellows won't give a blue, but I have grown blue carnations; at least the nearest to blue that anyone has ever yet made. Here's one of them," and he selected from the bunch heside him a carnation which, if viewed through blue glasses by a color blind and highly-imaginative person, might possibly seem a shade less pink than its fellows. The reporter, being like all reporters, conscientiously truthful. hinted that it wasn't a very decided indigo and that he had often been bluer than that himself. "Well, that's according to the way you look at it. I call that blue.

"I started in the carnation business with twelve varieties and now I have between four and five hundred, covering five acres of ground. The biszare carnations are obtained by crossing the flowers. They yield the first season, and then it is easy to propagate by slips.

"Carnations keep better than any and then it is easy to propagate by slips.

"Carnations keep better than any other flowers. Now you wouldn't think these were out four days ago?" and he pointed to a bunch which seemed even more brilliant and fragrant than those about it.

"A lady came in yesterday and wanted some real fresh carnations. I offered her some that had been cut only an hour before, but they weren't fresh enough to suit her, so she ploked out some herself. Those she chose had been in the store exactly two weeks. There's a great difference in this respect between the different varieties; some won't last more than a few hours and some will keep a fornight. We put a little amonia in the water and that helps to keep them fresh. Here take this blue carnation with you," and he passed over an excellent coralpink flower.

of A. R. Klock. near the corner of California street and Los Robles avenue, by the igniting of gasoline in the tank of the stove in the kitchen. No one was in the room at the time, the fire started, and but for the presence of mind of Mr. Klock the damage would have been serious.

Mr. Klock's little boy noticed from the yard that there was something wrong in the kitchen, and told his father, who was up stairs. Mr. Klok rushed into the room, calling at the same time for his son to run down to the power-house and telephone for the department. He closed all the windows and doors to exclude a draft, and began playing on the flames with a garden hose, furnished by a neighbor who came to his aid. In a few minutes the fire was under control, the interior woodwork only being scorched somewhat. The burning oil ran through the kitchen floor and ignited some building paper in the celler, and the department played upon this when it came, extinguishing the blaze without damage to the building.

HOW TO WRITE A PLAY.

(Atchison Globe.) As a general thing the plays produced at the theaters these days are enough alike to create the impression that one man wrote all of them. The heroine, a foundling, is adopted by people who once had a daughter who ran off and disappeared. The villain discovers that the foundling is in reality the grandchild of her foster parents, and makes up his mind to marry her to get the old folks' money. He plots to get the hero, with whom the heroine is in love, out of the way. He charges him with murder, or with forgery (here the writer has a chance to vary his plot a little bit; he can have forgery tonight, and murder tomorrow night) and the hero is put in jail.

The soubrette and the funny man unearth the plot, liberate the hero, accuse the villain, who confesses all, and in the last scene the old people find their grandchild, the heroine and her lover are united, the soubrette and the funny man agree to tie up, and the villain shoots himself.

Those who are ambitious to become play-writers will find in these details all the ingredients necessary to mix up for a popular play. (Atchison Globe:) As a general thing he plays produced at the theaters these significance of Quay's Interview Platt's Flag of Truce—The New York Herald's Canvass—Demo-crats for McKinley.

(Washington Special to Chicago Inter Ocean, June 2:) It is whispered here that one result of the Democratic success in Kentucky may be to bring out Vice-President Stevenson as a Presi-dential candidate. Mr. Stevenson is a native of Kentucky, and, being an Illinois man, the silver people look upon him as being an especially available candidate. They also think that he would come as near to getting the support of the administration and its army of subordinates all over the country as any man who could be nominated on a free-silver platform. His record as a greenbacker, when in Congress, and a silver man, is entirely satisfactory to the silver people, and the Kentuckians look upon him as an especially available man in heading off any further ef-forts in behalf of Mr. Carlisle, though it is probable that Mr. Carlisle will make no further effort.

Last Hope Gone. (Washington Special to Chicago Times-Herald, June 1:) Kentucky has deprived the administration people of their last hope of saving the day at Chicago. The Democratic national conchicago. The Democrate national convention will go for free silver by a large majority, though not by two-thirds. President Cleveland is bitterly disappointed, and realizes that it now makes no difference whatever whether he writes or doesn't write a letter declining a fourth nomination. It would not good to write a letter of declinaclining a fourth nomination. It would do no good to write a letter of declination now. The country would only smile at the belated pronunciamento. Nor would the rumored production of a letter of the same sort written six months ago help matters at all. Mr. Cleveland may as well keep still and let it go at that, and no one doubts that he has sense enough to do this very thing. He has missed his chance to poose before the peope as a patriot who thing. He has missed his chance to pose before the peope as a patriot who did not want what Washington wouldn't take and Grant could not get. He has missed his chance in this just as he and Carlisle missed their chance to save Kentucky from the silver craze by supporting Blackburn for the Senatorship last winter, and just as the President missed his chance to save Ohio by his angry interference with Lew Bernard. But all this is now ancient history, and the country is brought face to face with the fact that the great Democratic party is about to commit itself to monetary revolution.

Quay's Significant Interview.

Louis is the first authoritative assur-ance of what the public has suspected will be complete harmony in the ranks. The interview has special significance in Pennsylvania politics, which, while not unexpected, will create something of a sensation. Senator Quay has shown his wisdom and magnanimity from the first in preserving friendly relations with all the candidates before the people, and is demonstrating his loyalty and usefulness to the party by uniting the opposing elements for the coming nominee.

(Canton, O., Special to Chicago Record, June 1:) Platt has displayed the flag of truce and is ready to surrender. At any rate that is what some of Mc-At any rate that is what some of Mckinley's friends say who are supposed the story, and Platt's personal organ has given a flat denial to the McKinley men's declaration that he is seeking a reconciliation.

The Herald's Canvass.

The Herald's Canvass.

(New York Special to the Times-Herald, June 1:) A canvass of this State made by representatives of the New York Herald establishes the fact that a very large majority of the Republicans of this State are in favor of McKinley's nomination for President. It is dould be made to appear that Gov. Morton had any chance of becoming the standard-bearer of the party he would receive the loyal support of many who are now for McKinley. Except among the anti-Platt extremists. Gov. Morton has the respect and confidence of his party, and a considerable number of Republicans believe that he should receive the complimentary vote of the delegates from this State. But even of these McKinley is the second choice. Theisentiment for McKinley is strongest in the farming districts. Those who were originally for McKinley as the representative of a popular principle have been joined by others, who have become convinced that McKinley is going to win, and who wish to be on the wirning side. These include many "machine" men, who while nominally for Morton, do not scruple to admit that they believe McKinley will be the candidate.

Going for Carlisle.

(New York Mail and Express:) Sena man's determination to invade by undoubtedly means that he Kentucky undoubtedly means that he proposes to jab his gleaming pitch-fork into the midst of Mr. Carlisle' cross-grained financial record, and twiri it aloft in the open light of day. The performance will do little or nothing for the cause of Democratic harmony, but it is likely to show that smooth-faced hypocrisy still masquerades as patriotic statesmanship in old Kentucky.

Democrats for McKinley. (Toledo Blade.) The Buffalo Enquirer, which has hitherto been a Democratic paper, has come out in support of Mc-Kinley as the next President. This is a most significant change. The Enquirer's circulation is largely among the workingmen of Buffalo. It marks the fact that the men who toil in warehouse and mill and forge and factory, in railway yards and freighthouses—in fact, all classe of wage-workers—demand the election of McKinley. They have had an experience of Democratic hard times which they do not want repeated.

Silver Platform and Ticket.

The People's Decree.

(Chicago Inter Ocean:) Such men as Hon. Tom Reed, Gov. Morton, and Senator Allison are loved and honored by the Republican party throughout the land; but the people have decreed this year that the name of McKinley is more directly identified with protection, the great and leading issue, than that of any other one man. It is that questinin which has massed Republicans behind his banners, and not lack of confidence in other statesmen.

(Philadelphia Bulletin:) The dissolu-tion of the firm of Quay, Platt & Clark-son has been announced. It now looks as if a new partnership may be estab-lished under the firm name of Hanna &

(New York Mail and Express.) The loudest noise which the Ohio Democrats have heard this month was the bang with which Mr. Brice shut up his checkbook when he discovered that the sound money movement had been kicked to death by the free silver mule.

Protection Their Cry.

(New York Tribune:) One after another the organs of the Platt machine give up the fight against the inevitable. Even the Syracuse Standard concedes that it requires no prescience to discover that the sentiment of the country is "drifting irresistibly toward the illustrious apostle of protection."

On His Hands.

They Were Shaky (Buffalo Express:) The invitation to the Brooklyn delegates to go in the Platt train to St. Louis was respectfully declined. Was Gould Insane?

Pinancial Worry and Physical Ex-ertion not the Greatest Destroyer of Human Life.

For Humanity's Sake, After Thirty-six Years of Nerve-creeping Slavery, He Tells How He Was Set Free.

CALDWELL (N. J.,)—(Special.) S. J. Gould, who has suffered terribly from tobaccoot tremens, has, in behalf of humanity, made known his frightful experience. His written statement, which is attracting wide-spread attention, says: "For thirty-six years I chewed, smoked, snuffed and rubbed snuff till my skin turned a tobacco brown and cold, sticky perspiration coxed from my skin, and trickled down my back at the least exertion or excitement. My nerve, vigor, and, smy Me were slowly sapped. I had to quit tobacco or die. I tried to stop time and again, but could not. I saw double and my memory was beyond control, still I knew how to chew and smoke, which I did all day, until my system got tobacco-soaked again. Finally I gave up in despair.

"Now, for suffering humanity, I'll tell what saved my life. Providence brought to my good wife's attention a booklet called, 'Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away!' What a sermon and warning in these words! Just what I was doing. It told about a guaranteed cure for the tobacco habit, called No-to-Bac. I sent to Druggist Hasler for a box. Without a grain of faith I spit out my tobacco cud and put into my mouth a little tablet upon which was stamped No-to-Bac. I took eight tablets the first day, seven the next, five the third day, and all the nerve-creeping restlessness and mental depression was gone. It seemed too good to be true. I used one box. It cost me Et, and tis weight, and lost all desire for tobacco from the first day, I sleep and eat well, and have been benedied in more ways than I can tell. There's happiness in No-to-Bac for the prematurely old men who think as I did that they are old and worn out, when tobacco is the thing that destroys their vitality and manhood.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM.

Day Set for Voting on Electric

SANTA ANA, June 7.—(Regular Correspondence.) The public meeting to be held in the City Hall Monday evening is of interest to every public-spirited resident of the city, and especially so to the property-owners of the business blocks. If the motor line is allowed to large into languages desugated it is to lapse into inuocuous desuetude it is not at all unlikely that in a very short while cheaper rents will be demanded of the landlords by the merchants. There is and has been for some time in the past a great deal of indifference manifested upon the part of the public of Santa Ana in regard to street-rail-of Santa Ana in regard to street-rall-way accommodations, and, if the last vestige of the motor line is taken away, it will be a black eye to the city from which it will not soon recover.

The time has come for the public to take immediate action upon this matter, and a meeting of citizens has been called for Monday evening to be held in the City Hall, for this purpose. MALICIOUS MISCHIEF.

MALICIOUS MISCHIEF.

Some person, evidently with malice aforethought, committed a depredation Saturday evening, that if repeated is liable to land the perpetrator behind prison bars. George Peabody, son of Postmaster Peabody, had left his bicycle standing out on Fourth street, along the curb for a few minutes, shortly after dark, and while he had stepped into a store some malicious individual with but little brain and abnormally large feet placed a stick through the sprocket, and into the forks of the frame so that when the rider of the wheel came out and stepped on the pedals to start away, the sprocket was ruined, and the frame of the wheel injured. The officers will endeavor to ascertain who the wretch was who committed the depredation.

THE DATE IS SET.

The voters of Santa Ana will be called upon to express their views on the municipal ownership of the city's electric lighting system on July 14, that being the date set for the special elecsline the near approach of the elec-cion the fact has been demonstrated that the stockholders of the Santa Ana Gas and Electric Company and their friends will openly fight the issuance of bonds. In fact, they have been fight-ing the proposition all the while, but until recently it was done secretly; now they have asserted themselves against the bonds and openly declare they will do all they can to defeat them

Commerce relative to the proposiom of the city owning its lighting ight Between Arthur Smith and Henry McCracken Results Seriously - Men Claim They Saw James C. Dunham, the Murderer.

SAN BERNARDINO, June 7 .- (Regular Correspondence.) There was a cutting affray on the streets Saturday night about midnight which may re-sult in the death of Arthur Smith a young man 22 years old.

Smith and another young man were returning from the Santa Fé depot when at the corner of Third and F streets at the corner of Third and F streets they came upon a party of five men who were quarreling. Smith and his friend stopped to hear the quarrel, when Henry McCracken, one of the men, told them to move on. This they refused to do, when a challenge to fight was made, and Smith and McCracken stepped into the street to settle their differences. McCracken was badly used up, and called for quarter. When Smith got up he said he had been stabbed. He was then taken to the German Hospital. He had a slight cut on the throat and a bad wound over the heart, which, it is thought, was slightly cut by the knife.

None of the witnesses of the fight saw a knife used. McCracken said he did not know when he stabbed him, and admitted that he was found on the scene of the combat, both blades of which were closed and bore no blood stains.

Smith lives at Fourth and C streets with his parents.

McCracken lives at Highland. Offi-ers went after him early this (Sunday) norning, but have so far been unable to find him.

SANTA MONICA. June 7.—(Regular Correspondence.) Charles Nagatomo, a Japanese restaurant man, was arrested Saturday by Constable Myers on a warrant issued by Justice Wells. The charge against Nagatomo is assault with a deadly weapon, the complainant being M. Lang. Early Saturday morning Lang alleges that he was gathering swill from the alley running past the rear of the restaurant where Nagatomo employs his time, on the northerly side of Utah avenue, between Ocean avenue and Second street. Lang says that previous to that time he had not known the Jap. C. W. Brown, a meat market man, called to him to come and shake hands with Nagatomo. He approached as bidden, but, when he got close to the Jap, that individual, instead of reciprocating his advances, reached out a knife and quickly drew it across his (Lang's) right arm. Lang says the edge was pushed across the arm and then drawn backward across it again. His arm was bare and the cut bled profusely. The Jap, without waiting to apologize, or to see how serious injury he had inflicted, quickly went into the restaurant.

he had inflicted, quickly restaurant.

Lang went to Dr. Lindsey, who dressed the wound. There was found to be but one cut, but it was sufficiently deep to sever one of the large muscles. After complaint had been made and the warrant issued, Nagatomo at first declined to submit to arrest, but, after a litle persuasion, offered no further re-Sistance.

When taken before Justice Wells he was arraigned and released on deposit of $75 cash ball. Preliminary examination was fixed for Tuesday.

When seen at the restaurant by a reof $76 cash ball. Preliminary examination was fixed for Tuesday.

When seen at the restaurant by a reporter, Nagatomo was asked if he wanted to make any statement. One of the American young women waitresses employed at the place gave him a sharp look and shook her head, whereupon the accused became as mum as a clam. He retired and the young woman said the cutting was accidental and unintentional.

A businessman near Nagatomo's place told the reporter that there was great rivalry among the garbage gatherers as to which should get the refuse from the restaurants and that competition in the matter was so sharp that some of them paid for the privilege of getting it. Nagatomo complained to him about two weeks ago against Lang in connection with the matter and said he (Nagatomo) would "fix" Lang. This fact is urged to support the claim that the cutting was intentional.

The whole affair would probably be of little consequence were it not for the fact a strong prejudice exists against Japanese invasion of the restaurant business. It is likely there will be a good deal of interest in the later developments of the case.

MINING NEWS.

Extensive Improvements at Planet Saturn, of Yavapal country Arisona, intends to put up a roaster and a cyanide plant with a capacity of from seventy-five to 100 tons daily. The company will first develop the mine by sinking 500 feet, running levels, etc., to determine the character of the ore. At present the main shaft is down 430 feet. Just fifty main shaft is down 430 feet. Just fifty with three shifts in all the shafts and levels. The average of the ores in the lower levels and winzes is $20 a ton in gold. The massive sulphurets run something over $500 a ton. The ledge will average over two feet and promises soon to be one of the bullion producers of Yavapal.

William Macgregor, formerly in the employ of the Congress Gold Company, is now in Boston, testing the different classes of ore by the cyanide process, with good results. The company has developed all the water required from wells sunk in Fool's Gulch. The town has first-class water works, with 200-foot pressure on the water pipes, hydrants, hose and everything necessary to extinguish fires. But a short time ago Fool's Gulch was a wilderness of rocks. Now it has all the appearance of a thriving mining town. The development work has been done under the supervision and direction of W. A. Clark, a thorough and experienced mining man, and it is all of a systematic and permanent nature.

At Bisbee, Ariz, an electric plant is to be erected to separate the gold and silver which the copper bullion carries. The cyanide process is being used to great advantage on the immense body of taillings at the Union mine in Maricopa county, Arizona.

A smelter is to be erected at Safford, Graham county, Arizona, to work copper ores from the Lone Star district in the Graham mountains.

In 1894 Mohave county, with 250 men at work in the mines, produced nearly $1,660,000 in gold and silver.

Ex-Senator Tabor's big mine at Santa Eduardo, Mex., is now producing about $90,000 a month and the mining king is once more getting into the saddle.

VENTURA COUNTY.

Hot Fight in Prospect Over the Selection of a Building Site for the Ventura High School-Com-pany H'at Camp Drill.

VENTURA, June 7.—(Regular Correspondence.) Saturday was a busy day in this city, that is, busy in a public sense, as the air was freighted with discussions of topics of general interest. First in point of interest was the selection of a site on which it is proposed to erect a high school for use by the scholars of the Ventura High-school district. At this writing the sessions of the finishing classes are held in the Plaza school, but notice has been served on the High-school trustees that beginning with the opening of the fall term in September they must vacate, and find new quarters.

Public notice having been given that on Saturday, June 6, a general discus-

Public notice having been given that on Saturday, June 6, a general discussion would be held on choice of building site, the result was that the Plaza schoolhouse was crowded with property-owners and their attorneys, each and all anxious to unload the only really desirable high-school site in Ventura county. The published notice read that a popular vote would be taken on the matter, each voter being allowed the right to voice his preference by ballot, but this method of gathering sentiment was abandoned, when it was discovered that each property-owner was making that each property-owner was making an active political campaign, and that an active political campaign, and that about the whole voting population would take a hand in the matter. It was then decided to simply discuss the subject on its merits; and on its merits it was discussed, with the result that the whole afternoon was consumed in a wordy battle, and no actual result reached.

a wordy battle, and no actual result reached.

About twenty sites are now on the market, and by Monday, June 15 (to which date further discussion was postponed.) there will be about as many more, as the sale of high-school property has developed into a very popular branch of the local real estate business. The consensus of opinion seems to be that when the discussion is ended, the trustees will do about as they please in the matter. One heavy taxpayer informed the Times representative that "discussion might be a good thing along general lines, but what good this particular brand of discussion would do was past the understanding of man."

At the regular school election for School Trustee, which was held in this city on Friday last, something over ninety votes were cast. Dr. C. L. Bard received all but six of the whole number of votes, and will succeed himself for the coming year.

DEMOCRATS MEET. Yesterday afternoon nearly every nember of the Democratic County Cen-Testerday afternoon nearly every member of the Democratic County Central Committee was in town, in response to a call issued by Chairman F. W. Ewing and Secretary John W. Hammons. The committee, which embraces in its membership about a third of she whole Democratic vote of the county, met in the offices of Blackstock & Ewing, and deciding not to hold a county convention, but in lieu thereof to take the matter in their own hands and select delegates to the coming State convention. It consumed about four hours to reach this conclusion, select the delegates and unite on satisfactory resolutions. The delegates selected are fairly representatives of the "unwashed" in this county and are: John McGonigle, Thomas O. Toland, H. M. Staine, M. Fagan, Thomas A. Rice and Brice Grimes. The resolutions are of the stereotyped pattern, and cover all of the "burning" issues.

The free silver sentiment in the committee was very strong, and found expression in a cast-iron pledge administered to the delegates in the shape of exteen-fo-one, with additional instructions that they work and use all honorable means, to the end that none but free silver delegates be sent to Chicago. To the same end a resolution was adopted favoring the repeal of the existing specific contract law, and the payment of all contracts in this State in lawful money of the United States.

A resolution was discussed and finally adopted reaffirming faith in that section of the Constitution of the United States which guarantees civil and religious liberty. The Funding Bill now before Congress was condemned.

CO. H. IN CAMP.

Saturday night Co. H., Seventh Regiment N.G.C., Capt. A. W. Browne commanding, went into camp on the Taylor rancho, west of the Ventura River, for the regular annual camp and tent drill. This (Sunday) the camp has been the mecca for a large number of citizens who desired to witness the regular morning parade drill, which was scheduled for 9 o'clock. At the conclusion of the drill, rifle practice at 500 yards was induiged in for three hours, some remakably good shooting being done. At 1:15 pm. the company and about 100 invited guests sat down to an old-fashloned camp dinner, cooked in the open air by specially hired cooks. Everything was done according to military rule. Among the guests were some of the representative, professional and business men in the county. In deference to the day (Sunday) no regular toasts were drunk, and everything passed off as pleasantly as a Sunday School picnic. J. R. Willoughby, one of Ventura's leading farmers and business men, donated a 2-year-old steer, which, with beef, lamb and mutton, served a la barbecue, made up the bulk of the bill of fare.

Ralph Cerf, a member of the company, and one of the special detail of waiters at the guests' table, which was set in a wild walnut grove, presented each guest with an engraved tumbler, to be retained as a memento of the camp drill of 1896. At 3 p.m. a skirmish drill on the sand dunes next the ocean closed the military programme, the boys then breaking camp and returning to their armory, sunburned and tired out.

REDLANDS.
REDLANDS, June 7.—(Regular Correspondence.) The High School trustees have closed a contract with F. A. Shorep for the erection of an addition to the school building, and laboratory. The contract price is $11,609.33. As partial payment, Mr. Shorey takes the four and one-half acres originally intended for school grounds, at $3300. The contracts and bond were signed Saturday evening. Work will begin at once, with a view to having the buildings completed by the beginning of the next school year.

The addition to the principal building is the middle section of the structure as designed when complete and the building will now serve the city until there is an increase of about fifty pupils, probably three years, when the third section will have to be built.

TWICE IN A BLAZE

Fire in a Store Scares the Lodger

The fire department was called out about 3:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon by a lively blaze at No. 449 South Spring street. Five engines, a chemical engine and a hook and ladder company gine and a hook and ladder company were soon on the spot.

The fire had already gained considerable headway, but the firemen succeeded in confining it to the first floor. It was not extinguished until serious damage had been done.

The building is brick, three stories and basement; the main floor is occupied by the store of Winns & Flashman, grocers, and U. R. Bowers & Sons, dealers in paints, oils and varnishes. The two upper stories are leased to Mrs. Anderson, who rents furnished rooms. The fire apparently started in the basement.

The fire apparently started in the basement.

Mr. Winns said last evening that he was at the store from 10 to 12. O'clock yesterday morning, checking up accounts with one of his clerks. When he left at noon, he locked up the premises himself, and no one was in the store again until after the fire was discovered. The firm had on hand about $5000° worth of groceries, having taken on a large stock on the first of the month. Almost the entire stock was destroyed by fire and water. A considerable part of the stock was stored upon a "double deck" in the rear of the store, and this crashed through into the basement. Mr. Winn estimated that the entire salvage would not exceed $350. The firm carried $3500 insurance on its stock, and $500 on its fixtures.

U. R. Bowers & Sons, the occupants of the south store, were unable to make any estimate of their loss, but the damage is undoubtedly heavy. They had a quantity of dry colors and linseed oil in the basement, the former were make any estimate of their loss, but the damage is undoubtedly heavy. They had a quantity of dry colors and linsed oil in the basement; the former were ruined by water. No one had been in the store during the day. The firm carried 5000 insurance, which will doubtless fully cover the loss.

The lodgers on the second and third floors were badly frightened by the alarm of fire, and a rush was made for the one stairway which affords the only means of exit. Dense volumes of smoke were rolling up and added to the terror of the inmates. But for the efficient action of the police a serious panic might have ensued. One woman fainted on the stairway. Three others were taken from the windows by the hook and ladder company. The building has no fire escape, although it is said that the owner. Abbott Kinney, has been notified four times by the fire department to comply with the ordinance.

Fireman A. J. Springer of the Park hose company was overcome by smoke but will recover. The damage to the building will not exceed $300.

A second fire in the same premises was narrowly averted about 10:30 o'clock in the evening. A watchman who had been left in charge of Winn & Flashman's store attempted to fill a lighted lamp, which stood upon the counter. The lamp upset and in an instant the blazing oil had covered the floor. A section of hose had been left in the building, and a stream was quickly turned on. The blaze was extinguished without further damage.

THE OIL DISTRICT.

ONSUMERS ARE ANXIOUSLY SEEK ING OIL AT CUT RATES.

Field's First Destructive Fire A Further Advance in Prices Anticipated—General Review of Drilling Operations Throughout

Since The Times' last weekly review of the local oil field, a destructive con-flagration has visited the district, sweeping out of existence several homes and a few thousand barrels of oil.

This fire occurred Saturday night. The flames extended to only a small portion of the district, being princi-pally confined to a narrow strip on the west side of Metcalf, midway between Court and Temple streets.

The district will soon recover from the shock, but the loss to individual owners is a serious one, in some in-stances the accumulation of years having been wiped out. Oil producers have had a long struggle against adverse market conditions and it is to be seriously regretted that when financial relief seemed near at hand this misfortune should have fallen upon any of lief seemed near at hand this misfortune should have fallen upon any of their number.

At last Monday's meeting of the directors of the Oil Exchange, the price of the fuel product was advanced to $1.25 a barrel, delivered aboard cars, and in the light of the continued reduction of the surplus and in losses by fire, it is not improbable that the enthusiast's prediction of $1.50 oil will soon be realized. The burning of derricks and destruction of pumping plants will result in cutting off a hitherto important daily production. Some of these wells will have to be sand-pumped, but no permanent damage was inflicted by the fire.

Doheney & Connon were peculiarly fortunate. Their wells almost surrounded the fire, yet they sustained no loss; in fact, it is estimated that from 1000 to 1500 barrels of oil flowed into their oil lake at the northwest corner of Court and Metcaif streets. A large volume of water also gravitated to the lake, but it was being pumped out yesterday, and will occasion no loss of oil. The price of oil has become firm in the field at quotations ranging from $1.10 to $1.15 at the well tanks. Agents of a great many heavy consumers have been through the district during the past week, endeavoring to secure large amounts at a slight cut under present prices.

There is more talk of "wildcatting." An increased supply from some source is becoming necessary to meet the demands of growing consumption. Increase of product through deep drilling has been found to be impracticable, owing to encountering a strong flow of water.

over the Council during Teed's absence.
The Board of Public Works may de over the Council during Teed's absence.

The Board of Public Works may decide today to report in some way upon the demand of the Merchants' Association for an ordinance which will give relief from the standing of vehicles on the business streets of the city. There is a possibility of the merchants appearing in person before the Council to plead their case, but similar efforts in the past have proven so unsatisfactory that the merchants may not think it profitable to waste words with the Councilmen on the subject.

John Drain, Superintendent of Street Sprinkiling intends to persuade the Councilmen that he is entitled to have his petition, asking to be released of his duties as Street Sweeping Inspector granted, or at least taken cognizance of. It is probable that the Council will either at today's or some future meeting, appoint a man, whose sole duty it will be to inspect the work done by the street-sweeping contractor.

City Attorney Dunn is expected to report to the Council today in the matter of the complaint made by various street-railway companies, that in advertising for sale a franchise on Wolfskill avenue, between Second and Fifth streets, their rights in the premises were being trespassed upon.
